NEWS SUMMARY.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Mrs. Brown, one of the victims of a murderous assault and robbery, at Hampton Falls, N. H., died Saturday. Mr. Brown survives, but with little hopes of recovery. Both are over seventy years of age. The evidence against Pike as the murderer, is conclusive.

The Canastota Hotel, at Canastota, N. Y., was entirely consumed by fire Saturday. The New York Central Railroad ticket office, and the Western Union and American telegraph offices were located in the building. Loss, $15,000; insurance, $8,000.

Judge Field, of the Supreme Court, and Lucille Western, the actress, left New York for California Saturday.

The schooner Mary Ann was burned to the water's edge at Weehawken Saturday. Loss $25,000.

Stephen Conroy shot Albert Townsend on Saturday, at Hoboken, for seducing Mrs. Conroy. He then attempted to beat out his wife's brains with the butt of the pistol. He was arrested.

The accounts of James D. Martin, the cashier of the National Hide and Leather Bank, Boston, are found to have been made up on false figures for some time past, and show a deficit of about one hundred thousand dollars. The defalcation is attributable to speculation.

The trial of Joseph A. Boydon and S. Flavus, in the United States District Court, at Boston, for conspiring to evade the payment of tax on large quantities of spirits, resulted in a verdict of guilty. A new trial is asked for.

A verdict of three thousand dollars was given Saturday, in Boston, in favor of Belinda Ellows, as the result of her suit against Daniel D. Kelly for breach of marriage promise.

A band of Indians made an attack Friday afternoon on the Union Pacific Railroad, Kansas branch, about twenty miles west of Coyote. They stopped a freight train and burned three car loads of freight, a lot of construction material, and tore down the telegraph wires. They then moved east toward Coyote, where, it is said, they would be received by a large force. The railroad men are well provided with arms and ammunition, furnished by the Government, to meet such an emergency. Two companies of cavalry have been ordered from Hays's to pursue the Indians, and other posts along the line have been notified of the condition of affairs.

A duel took place Saturday morning near Baltimore, between Colonel F. X. Green, of Missouri, and Donelly Wright, of Baltimore. Both parties were wounded by the first shot—Green in the shoulder, and Wright in the leg—but neither very severely. A second shot was insisted on by one of the parties, but objected to by his second, and the affair ended after the first shot, although no adjustment of the difficulty was had.

Commissioner Shannon, of New Orleans, on Saturday, dismissed the suit against Governor Baker on a charge of perjury in taking the oath of office. He decided the evidence produced by the prosecution as having failed in the substantial charges.

An affidavit has been filed before United States Commissioner Weils, by one of the late New Orleans Registers, to the effect that the newly elected Republican Recorder of the First District was not naturalized until after his nomination, and that Conway, the Republican Superintendent of Education, is not a registered citizen of Louisiana, although appearing on the ticket from the parish of Orleans. The same affidavit states that Commissioner Shannon attempted, by threats, to intimidate the affiant from performing his duty according to his oath.

The Supreme Court on Saturday decided, at Richmond, that in case of debts contracted in Confederate money, the amount shall be computed at the value of the money when the debt matured, and not when contracted. Another decision given by the same court is, that the noteholders of the old banks of the State shall not have preference in the division of assets, but depositors and all creditors share alike.

The memorial celebration took place in Richmond Saturday. Fourteen thousand Confederate graves in Oakwood Cemetery were decked with flowers.

The base ball match game between the Cincinnati and Xenia clubs, played at Xenia, Saturday, resulted in the defeat of the Xenia club, the score being, Xenia 11, and Cincinnati 31. Mr. Lewis King, one of the best players of the Xenia club, broke his leg by turning suddenly while on the run of a foul ball.

Walter and Milton Forney and John Priestly, aged respectively nine and eleven and ten years, while playing on Mill Creek Bottom, below Cincinnati, Saturday afternoon, ran into a deep sink filled with stagnant water, and were drowned before assistance could reach them. Two little girls and a boy had fallen into the same sink during the forenoon, but were rescued.

Gen. Sheridan arrived at St. Louis Saturday, en route to Washington. Governor Crawford, of Kansas, also arrived en route for Chicago.

At St. Louis on Saturday, a number of prominent merchants, especially those interested in the through grain trade and transportation, presented Myron Colony, commercial editor of the Democrat, with a valuable watch and chain as a testimonial of their appreciation of his efforts in advancing the material interests of the city, and particularly for his advocacy of and action in the inauguration of shipments of grain in bulk to New York and Liverpool via New Orleans. The presentation was made at the Democrat office, where a large number of merchants congregated. Several leading business men of the city made speeches, and much gratification was expressed at the successful result of the new movement. James Cameron, of the firm of Gillilan & Co., of Liverpool, was present, and spoke in favor of the New Orleans route for the shipment of Western and Northwestern produce to European ports.

A Havana special says: The case of the American steamers Liberty and Cuba, at Havana, is likely to be made an international affair. One of the Americans who had been imprisoned in Nuevitas for three years, through the neglect of the authorities, had been crazy.

The New York Leader says the Receiver of the Rock Island Railroad Company filed his official bond on Thursday, John Kerr, President of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company, being the surety and justifying in the sum of one million dollars.

The old ship of the line Columbus has been sold at Norfolk, to the parties who raised her for $72,000.

The Bull's Head Bank of New York lost nothing from the fraudulent deposits by the swindler Harvey, as their character was discovered before any of his drafts were honored.

Gen. Lawrence, who recently fought a duel with an attache of the Prussian Legation, left New York Saturday for his Costa Rican mission.

It is stated that the defalcation in the Hide and Leather Bank of Boston will not exceed $100,000. Mr. Martin, the cashier, was under temporary arrest, but by consent of the officers has been released and put in charge of a deputy sheriff. Mr. A. C. Fulton, whose requirements for money were supplied unknown to the Bank officers, is in jail. He failed to meet his obligations, and involved the cashier. The credit of the Bank is not affected.

The stern wheel steamboat Ilroy, which escaped from the clutches of the United States Marshal, arrived at Memphis several days since, and was seized Saturday by United States Marshal Bingham and placed in charge of a negro named Harris. Yesterday morning about three o'clock the boat was discovered to be on fire in two places. The flames were finally subdued, after the pilot house and texas had been burned off. The fire in the cabin destroyed the mattresses belonging to the boat, and scorched the cabin badly. The loss was about $3,000.

A negro barber named Dave Thomas was shot and killed by another named Nip Gunter, in a row in Memphis Saturday night.

The police imbroglio in Louisville, which has existed for some weeks past, has not as yet been adjusted. The Mayor and Common Council differ as to the manner of organizing a police force for the city, and both persist in not recognizing the Board of Police Commissioners established by the State Legislature at the last session.

A Nashville dispatch says: This afternoon having been set apart for the decoration of the graves of Southern soldiers at the city cemetery and Mount Olivet, the ceremony was handsomely performed. The head boards were hung with wreaths, and the graves strewn with flowers. None were forgotten. The crowd that attended is estimated at 10,000, the majority ladies. The utmost good order and decorum was observed.

A Democratic State Convention to appoint delegates to the National Convention will be held in Nashville the 9th of June next.

At a fire in Post and Jones streets, San Francisco, Friday night, a frame house fell on six firemen, who escaped with their lives, but were severely burned. During the alarm a little boy was run over by an engine and killed.

There have been no further labor disturbances in San Francisco. Contractors have resolved to pay by the hour—one dollar and sixty cents in gold for eight hours, and two dollars for ten hours for day laborers.

The Pacific Mail Company have withdrawn their men from Brooks Island, San Francisco, and will probably abandon it as a coaling station.

BY MAILS.

A letter from East Tennessee says: The weather here is very inclement and wet, and we are having a late spring. But little corn has been planted. Wheat, however, is looking fine, and more acres are in than ever before. A good crop will put East Tennessee on her feet again, where she has not yet been since the war. In some sections, the peach blossoms were injured by the late frosts, but if half those remaining come to maturity the hope will be realized. The other fruits have not been injured. Oats and grass are looking unusually well and promise excellent crops.

On Wednesday evening last some heartless and cowardly wretch, in the vicinity of Baltimore, perched upon a high embankment by the side of a railroad track, threw an immense stone upon a passing train of passenger cars. The boulder, unfortunately, passed through the roof of a car, seriously wounding a gentleman and fatally injuring his wife.

The New York correspondent of the Mobile Register predicts a smash-up among the jobbers and importers in that city. He says: "Heavy obligations will soon fall due—about the end of May, mostly—and the means to meet them will be hard to find. One of the few prosperous dealers on Broadway told me a few days ago that Eastern merchants will not be able to pay more than twenty cents on the dollar. Western men can do better, and nearly all the goods sold to Southern men were sold for cash, so that the heaviest losses this season will have to be borne by houses which have been selling to the East."

After the jury in the Cole case, at Albany, New York, had been discharged, some of the six jurors who had, for forty-three hours, steadily persisted in the jury room in finding no other verdict than that of acquittal, were guilty of the unseemly conduct of seeking the opportunity to congratulate the counsel of the prisoner upon the success of their efforts in preventing a conviction. This was quickly followed by a visitation of those jurors to the prisoner in jail to shower upon him all their sympathy, and seek from him his thanks for having so persistently stood by him.

The Kansas people have found a way to circumvent the grasshoppers. It consists in turning sheep upon the wheat to eat it down, so that when the insects come and find nothing they leave in disgust. The wheat recovers from the feeding of the sheep, but if the grasshoppers go over it they take root as well as stock.

A young lady of Richmond was so fortunate as to have two admirers. She was unfortunate in her choice, for him whom she married forsook her and she has lived in seclusion ever since. But the other day she received notice from the administrator of the rejected lover, who had died in New Orleans, that his whole estate had been bequeathed to her. She is now moderately happy.

Footfalls Upon the Rocks.

(From the Santa Clara (Cal.) Argus, April 4.)

In Carson Valley, Nevada, near the town of Dayton, there are many curious and interesting geological vestiges of ancient fauna and flora. Petrified palm trees, conifers and many extinct tropical plants are found in abundance, but the most notable object in that region is the "imprinted rock." At the mouth of El Dorado Canyon, on the northeast side of the Carson river, a wagon road passes over a plain of naked rock, which lies nearly horizontal, and is apparently composed of the silicified volcanic ashes, or, at any rate, the product of some sort of volcanic matter.

This stone is extensively used in Nevada for building material, and is considered superior to the freestone of the Atlantic States. From the appearance and markings of the rock about which we are writing, it is quite apparent that it was at one time in a soft plastic condition, analogous to mud, or wet mortar. The surface of the rock contains innumerable footprints, or tracks of quadrupeds, all as distinctly defined as if they were impressed there recently. The most remarkable of these impressions is that which has been made by an enormous beast of the equine genus. Many of these ancient horse tracks measure eighteen inches in diameter. The impressions are deeply cut in the rock, and have the precise form of the horse's hoof, except that the heel or heavy "attack of the beast has also made an impression in the rear of the track. The same rock surface contains tracks of the young of the same species, these last being about the size of a full grown modern horse track. In addition to these, the rock is dotted with the footprints of enormous bears, elk, deer and other animals. Two or three years since, the skeleton of a large fossil animal was exhumed in Nevada. The specimen when alive probably measured eighteen feet in length by about seven or eight in height. Although the specimen was in an advanced state of decomposition, those who examined it were satisfied that it belonged to the genus equus, and was probably the kind of creature which left the footprints above described.

GEORGIA AND FLORIDA ELECTIONS.

The African M. E. Conference.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9, 1868.

Impeachment

There are no further significant developments in regard to impeachment. The Democratic evening paper concedes that the President will be convicted, but two or three Senators, who have been looking over the ground, are not yet sure of such a result. The strong impeachment men of the House are, however, entirely confident of success. Large numbers of Republican Senators have been engaged today in looking over the law and facts, and a majority of them are deemed to be thus engaged this morning. Mr. Edmunds is writing a careful and elaborate opinion, about which there is more than usual interest, as he drew up the tenure-of-office act, and had charge of it at every stage in the Senate. There is a good deal of quiet consultation and canvassing going on this evening.

Harbor and River Bill.

The House Committee on Commerce have taken a final vote on the Harbor and River bill, the principal figures already telegraphed being retained. The whole sum asked for being six millions, the committee was unanimous with the exception of Washburne, of Illinois, who has taken the bill agreed to, and with this as a basis is preparing a bill reducing the aggregate of expenditures from six to two and a half millions.

Virginia Politics.

A prominent Alexandria politician, named John Hodgskin, who was a delegate to the late Republican Convention of Virginia, is so disgusted with the nominations made there that he presents a card saying: "I this day sever my connection with all political organizations, and shall hereafter endeavor to pay more attention to my future salvation."

The Georgia Elections.

General Grant has received advices that Bullock, Republican, is elected Governor of Georgia by 7,229 majority; that the constitution is adopted by 17,903 majority; that the Republicans have a majority of ten in the upper and sixty-four in the lower house of the State Legislature.

Florida.

The returns from Florida indicate the adoption of the Constitution by three thousand majority, and the election of the Republican Governor by about half that figure.

City Nomination.

At the Republican Convention yesterday evening, Sayles J. Bowen, postmaster here for three years, was nominated for Mayor, receiving ninety-two votes to thirteen for all other candidates. He accepts the nomination, and says if elected he will use all his power to put the colored people on an equality with the whites in the distribution of labor and in school privileges. The Democrats will nominate next Tuesday. The Republicans believe that they can carry the city by over one thousand majority. The election takes place in about a month.

The Stonewall.

The iron-clad ram Stonewall, sold by our Government to the Japanese, reached Sandwich Islands on the thirteenth of March, would sail again in four days, and expected to reach Japan about the first of this month.

Going to Europe.

Captain John L. Worden, of the navy, who commanded the Monitor in the memorable fight with the rebel ram Merrimac, has not yet recovered from his wounds received at that time and is going to Europe next month for his health.

African M. E. Conference.

The quadrennial address before the African M. E. Conference, now sitting in this city, was delivered this morning by Bishop Wyman. He congratulated the church on its labors and success, and sketched the work they meant to do in coming years among the black people of the South.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9, 1868.

TREASURY STATEMENT.

The fractional currency printed for the week amounts to $378,000; amount shipped, $569,307; United States notes forwarded, $43,342; National Bank notes issued, $421,630; amount in circulation, $299,765,155; fractional currency destroyed, $432,000.

THE FLORIDA ELECTION.

The following dispatch, dated Atlanta, May 9th, has been received by General Grant:

To General U. S. Grant, Commanding Armies of the United States:

Colonel Sprague telegraphed that the elections in Florida passed off without discord, and judging from partial returns the constitution was ratified by about three thousand majority, and the Reed ticket (Republican) elected by a small majority. Official returns have been received in this State from all but one county, and show that the constitution is ratified by 17,903 majority. Bullock (Republican) is elected Governor by 7,229 majority. The Senate stands twenty-seven Republican and sixteen Democrats. One doubtful. The House stands ninety-five Republican, twenty-four Democrats, and six doubtful.

[Signed] G. G. MEADE,
Major General.

WASHINGTON, May 10.

IMPEACHMENT.

What the result of the impeachment trial will be is mere speculation. Senators still preserve a studied silence as to how they will vote upon the question. It is not known that they have given even a private intimation to that effect. The friends and opponents of conviction outside of the Senate are alternately depressed and elated. Bets are freely to be made. Impeachment is the general theme.

FENIANS RELEASED.

The Secretary of State has received the following from the British Minister at Washington:

H. B. M. LEGATION, WASHINGTON, May 8, 1868.

MR. SEWARD: I give you a copy of a telegram which I have just received from Lord Stanley: "Nagle, Nugent, Leonard, Lee and Fitzgibbons, having signed a document acknowledging that they came in the Jacmel, and expressing their regret for so doing, have been set free, and were to sail yesterday for America." Sincerely yours,

EDWARD THORNTON.

Mr. Seward replied as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, May 8, 1868.

MY DEAR MR. THORNTON: I thank you for the pleasing information you have given me of the release of the so-called Fenian prisoners, Nagle, Nugent, Leonard, Lee and Fitzgibbons. Very sincerely yours,

WM. H. SEWARD.

A Confidence Operation—Speedy Justice.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial

WARSAW, IND., May 9, 1868.

Charles Burgess and Mart Davis, two noted confidence men, played the old express goods game on a gentleman seventy-six years old, by the name of John Maynard, on one of the trains on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, near this station, on Wednesday morning last. They got between seven and eight hundred dollars on a bogus check. The parties were detected here and left suddenly for Goshen, where they were pursued and arrested and brought back. They had a preliminary trial before a Justice of the Peace, and were bound over to the Common Pleas Court, which was in session, and were there tried and sentenced for seven years in the State prison, and five hundred dollars fine. Davis is a brother of the confidence man that was shot at Fort Wayne by detective Wells, one year ago to-morrow.

A Devil Fish.

A letter from Alaska, published in the San Francisco Bulletin, says the "devil fish" is an inhabitant of the waters of our new territory. Not long since one of them fastened to the bait which a sailor on the Jamestown had thrown over for halibut, and being detached from the bottom, was hauled on board without difficulty. The correspondent says: "As the repulsive glutinous mass sprawled its eight cold, slimy, fanny, living things (extended fully four feet) about the deck, to which it would attach so firmly that the utmost strength of a powerful man was required to rend the hold of one of them, we recognized the correct and unexaggerated description of Victor Hugo. If anything was needed to intensify its intrinsic loathsomeness, it was added when some Indians begged it, and taking it in their canoe ashore, ate it."

THE FENIAN BARRETT REPRIEVED.

Abyssinia.

LONDON, May 9.—When the Queen forces took possession of the fortress and works at Magdala they immediately destroyed over thirty large guns, with some few mortars, which had been used in defense of the place or to impede the English advance.

The gates and loopholed bastions were mined and blown up with gunpowder. The town proper and the more interior fortified points were fired, and every building used as a dwelling in the place, including the royal palace, burned. The church was spared.

The work of the razzia was completed on the 17th of April.

The widow of the late King Theodorus and her son, heretofore heir apparent of the Abyssinian throne, were protected by General Napier and escorted from his camp to the Tigre country.

Having discharged his duty and accomplished his errand of liberation for the captives in the most complete manner, General Napier mustered his army as if on parade, the command "Bout face; march!" was given, and the British troops left Magdala on the 18th of April on their route in return to the Red Sea coast.

Napier hoped to reach Zoulla by the last day of May, from which point the road is comparatively easy to Senafe and Annesley bay.

The deceased King Theodorus was buried in the church at Magdala, official respect being shown to his remains. The young Prince Theodorus, his son, will be conveyed to England and educated there.

Gobbazze, the friendly chief, who aided the Queen's army through Tigre, will be duly crowned king of Abyssinia, thus introducing a new dynasty.

The reports convey a very graphic picture of the great battle which took place between the British and Abyssinians on the 10th of April—Good Friday—previous to the storming of Magdala.

As soon as the English advance came in view the Abyssinian enemy stood forth in grand array, as if in response to the sight.

Theodorus opened at once with his mortars on Napier. The British replied with the same description of gun. The fire from the defenses having endured for a short time three thousand five hundred warriors, setting up loud shouts of joy and revenge and chanting national songs of triumph, dashed with great ardor down the steep hill from the palace fortress and charged the British light batteries gallantly.

Napier's men stood firm and the Abyssinians were repulsed, having seven hundred warriors, including two prominent chiefs, killed during the engagement.

The tactics of Theodorus's officers were judicious and the courage displayed by his soldiers excellent.

Aware of his heavy loss, Theodorus forwarded a flag of truce to General Napier's headquarters, inquiring on what terms the English would negotiate a peace. General Napier replied that, speaking in the name of the Queen, his terms were merely and strictly an unconditional surrender. Theodorus, through his envoy, immediately said he would never accept such arbitrary terms as that, seeing even his present defeat he would prefer to fight to the end. In conclusion the King requested General Napier to take the British captives, whom he would hand to him, and "go away hence" when they had all been released. The King refused positively a surrender for himself, and the conference was broken off. Magdala was, consequently, "stormed" by the English a few days afterwards.

During the latest moments of the fighting, after the British assault, and when driven to his latest standpoint, Theodorus attempted suicide on three separate occasions.

He was rendered perfectly furious by his defeats. The released captives say they saw three hundred native captives killed by the King's order on the 9th of April.

Train Released on Bail.

DUBLIN, May 9.—George Francis Train, who was arrested for debt, was brought before the Court of Bankruptcy to-day and admitted to bail.

Death.

LONDON, May 9.—Henry Lord Brougham, Ex-Chancellor of England, died at Cannes, France, to-day, in his ninetieth year.

LONDON, May 10, Evening.—Later dispatches from Cannes, France, state that Lord Brougham died easily. He fell into a pleasant slumber, from which he never awoke.

Persecution of Jews Stopped.

VIENNA, May 10.—Telegrams were received yesterday, which state that the persecution of the Jews in Jassy, Bakau and other places in Moldavia, has been stopped by the authorities. Those who were compelled to flee from their homes have been allowed to return. The assassins and desecrators of the graves of the Jews, who perpetrated these outrages almost with impunity for a long time, will hereafter be vigorously punished.

Extension of Treaty.

BERLIN, May 10.—Mr. Bancroft, United States Ambassador, starts to-morrow for Baden and Wurtemburg. His object is to meet representatives of those countries and negotiate for the extension of the provisions of the nationality treaty recently concluded between North Germany and the United States to Baden and Wurtemburg also.

Reprieved.

LONDON, May 10.—The case of Barrett, the convicted Fenian, awakens considerable interest. On petition the prisoner has been reprieved for a week. Further Government inquiry will be made.

Our Bonds in Holland.

Holland has been the first and steadiest creditor of the United States of all the foreign countries. During the period of our greatest depression, Holland was the most cheering that came from the other side of the Atlantic. The sums invested in United States bonds and in Illinois Railroad stocks and bonds in Amsterdam alone, to say nothing of the rest of the Netherlands, were, we are assured, enormous. The Library of the City of Amsterdam, says the Tribune, is richer than any library on the Continent of Europe in books relating to American affairs—historical, political, financial, and mercantile—most of them presented by a gentleman born in Amsterdam, for many years—more than a quarter of a century—resident in this country, now visiting the land of his birth. This gentleman assures us that he has been earnestly pressed for information on the policy the Government is likely to pursue in regard to the liquidation of those debts. He declares that he speaks the opinions of the highest class of merchants and financiers in Amsterdam, men who know America well, and have at their command the most authentic intelligence respecting her great public interests, men very jealous of our national honor, very proud of our national enterprise, and very sincerely interested in our national prosperity. These men all say that if the bonds of the United States are paid in greenbacks—if the Government intends to fabricate a sufficient number of millions of paper dollars to get rid of the five-twenty bonds, it will be considered a breach of good faith, and the credit of the United States in Europe will be shaken to its very foundations. No loans will thereafter be made for public improvements in America, and the undeveloped resources of the country will remain dormant for fifty years to come. The people here all know how disastrous this would be for America, and, as so many individuals and charitable institutions, banks of savings, and trust companies, in the United States, have invested enormous capitals in Government bonds, they look on those who have something to lose for their safety, and hope that Congress will not disregard the expressed opinions of those whose interest requires the preservation of the United States credit." Should Congress abolish the National banks, it is believed that they will throw their bonds upon the market, and will thereby cause a tremendous fall in their price—an event that would be exceedingly disastrous.

METHODISM.

GENERAL CONFERENCE AT CHICAGO

REVISION OF THE DISCIPLINE.

Petitions and Memorials Presented.

Debate on the Admission of Southern Delegates.

CHICAGO, May 9.—The Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church assembled at the usual hour. After the opening exercises the order of business was taken up.

Rev. Dr. Canon, of Philadelphia, offered a resolution in favor of so amending the Discipline that the Quarterly Conference shall be the organ of communicating with Bishops in regard to the appointment of preachers. Referred.

Rev. Mr. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, presented a memorial from Elkton, Maryland, praying for the rescinding from the journal of the General Conference the resolution adopted in 1836, censuring two of its members for making abolition speeches. Referred to the Committee on the State of the Church.

Rev. Mr. Hester, of Indiana, offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Revisals to consider the expediency of incorporating into the law of the church the stringent Scriptural rule in regard to divorces.

Rev. Dr. Holiday, of Indiana, submitted a resolution asking the Committee on Revisals to incorporate into the discipline a rule defining what authority shall appoint choristers, employ choirs, and regulate the music of the church.

A member of the Troy Conference proposed a resolution to so amend the discipline that in the invitation to the Lord's table the words "And have been baptized" be inserted. Tabled.

Rev. A. J. Lyday, of West Virginia, presented a resolution in favor of biennial sessions of the General Conference. Also one in favor of increasing the number of Bishops. Referred.

A number of petitions in favor of lay representation were presented and referred.

The subject of admission was taken up. Rev. Mr. Hester, of Indiana, offered an amendment to Dr. Reddy's substitute for the report of the special committee. The amendment proposed to consider first the claims of the Mission Conferences of the second class, namely, those in the Southern States, leaving those of the third class (colored) to be considered and acted upon afterwards.

Dr. A. Wheeler, of North Ohio, then addressed the Conference on the substitute, and in favor of claimants. He showed that the erection of territories into States, and the admission of their representatives into Congress was by a process similar to that pursued in this case, and argued in favor of the perfect regularity of action proposed by the substitute of Dr. Reddy.

Rev. Dr. Porter, of Providence, occupied fifteen minutes with an argument to show that representatives from the South are not legally entitled to seats or votes in the General Conference. He claimed that the Conference had power according to the law of the church to organize mission conferences with prohibition as to representation, and that this was done by the General Conference in 1864.

A HEAVY LAW SUIT.

Half of Ironton to be Sued For—The Point of Attack.

(From the Ironton (Ohio) Register.)

A suit will, in all probability, soon be brought on the part of the heirs of John Davisson, to regain a large tract of land, on which the business portion of the city of Ironton is built. The estate in controversy comprises nearly all that tract below a line, starting at the river just above the depot, and running back to the hill, passing in the neighborhood of the Presbyterian Church and old plow factory. This tract of land was once the farm of John Davisson. In 1831 this person died, and in his will he settled upon his wife all his personal property, and during her life, all his real estate. Upon her decease, his executor, Isaac Davisson, was authorized and instructed, as the words of the will go, "to sell and convey by public sale, my plantation whereon I now live, by making an equal division of the same, running from the river back," &c. The wife elected to take under the will, and she held the land until 1848, when she died. The estate was then divided into two parts (so it is said, for we are unable to find further record proof), and the divisions offered for sale separately. There were no bids for the separate portions of the land, so the crier offered both together, when the property was knocked down to W. D. Kelly. This was in 1849. Soon after the entire tract was transferred to the Ohio Iron and Coal Company.

The point which we understand the heirs make is, that the land was not disposed of in the manner contemplated by the will, and the sale is, therefore, void. What could have been the intention of the testator in making the division in his land is more than we can tell. It certainly did not conduce to high bidding, for the land in two lots was not near so valuable as the tract entire. Indeed, when offered separately, there were no bids. Still, all these reasons and considerations are of no weight in the construction of the will, when it is ascertained that it was the plain intent of the testator that the land should be offered in two parts, each parcel separately.

It may be that the heirs have other and more potent grounds for their claim than the one we mention. If they have, they will certainly urge a vigorous contest, for the amount involved, being over a half million of dollars, is quite sufficient to remunerate a person for all the labor it will cost.

A New York Scandal.

(From the New York Correspondence of Boston Journal.)

New York is as grateful for a new sensation as was the Roman Emperor who ennobled a cook for furnishing him with a new sauce. Just now the fashionable portion of the city are reveling in a new excitement. We have here a gentleman who, through his business, is as well known as is Bonner, Harper or Stewart. He lives in fine style, has a splendid horse, and is surpassed by no one in the elegance of his turnout on Central Park. It was long supposed that his housekeeper was his wife. It turns out that he does not live with his wife and that she has been for a long time supporting herself in this city by her needle. She is a very elegant and accomplished lady. For her children's sake she held her peace for a long while. The elegant gold embroidery which made such a sensation at the Paris Exhibition was from her needle. She found a friend in the head of one of our fashionable establishments, and the fashionable and elaborate embroidery worn by the ton of New York was the handiwork of this lady. Recently her husband made a proposition to her. He promised to settle on her a handsome sum of money if she would allow him to obtain full divorce under our laws. The proposal was so infamous that the lady resolved to bear her neglect and sorrow in silence no longer. She issued a beautiful printed circular, announcing herself by her husband's name; stating his business, so there could be no mistake about the identity, offering her service to the fashionable of New York; assigning as a reason for the offer that she wished to obtain bread for herself and children, and stating that she could be found daily at a fashionable dress making establishment on Broadway. These circulars were scattered broadcast among the fashionable families of New York, and any quantity of them were sent by private hands to the husband. His indignation is unbounded, for he has great personal pride. New York has a nine-days' wonder. People crowd the rooms where the lady is advertised to be seen, and where she sits day by day, with "stitch, stitch, stitch," with the golden thread of her embroidery. What the issue will be remains to be seen.

IT IS stated that an arrangement of much importance to the coal, iron and lumber interest of this State, has been consummated between the several canal lines on the Susquehanna river and its branches, embracing the Wyoming Canal, the West Branch and Susquehanna the Pennsylvania, and the Susquehanna and Tidewater, Canals. These several companies together owning the whole system of canals draining the great interior of the State, and connecting it with tidewater, have entered into a contract which takes effect immediately. By this contract they respectively bind themselves to operate their canals as one line on all through tonnage, to pro-rata all through tolls, and to enlarge all of their canals by the spring of 1871 to six feet depth of water. It is estimated by the parties interested that the above arrangement will effect a reduction of one half on the vast tonnage of anthracite and bituminous coal, lumber, and iron which annually seeks tidewater by these lines, and will at once create an outlet for the bituminous coal of Pennsylvania, which will enable it to command the New York and Eastern markets, thereby vastly extending the business and tonnage of the Susquehanna valley.

IT is interesting to note how constantly the hints of which Hawthorne's "Note Books" were so full, appear in a more elaborate form, in subsequent writers. A curious illustration of this fact is found in the following conceit from "Norwood;" "What if there should be a resurrection of that which has been buried in looking glasses? Little children's faces, anxious mothers, budding girls beginning to suspect their own beauty, vain and giggling looks, grave and sad looks of those who hate to grow old, vexed looks of those who have cut themselves in shaving, timid and anxious looks of those who have been sick, double images of lovers glancing upon the sweet picture of their embrace, prim and prig pedants touching up their gray whiskers and covering their baldness with the few stray locks yet left, simple and wondering looks of curly and woolly Phillis, whose honest, homely face is just as dear to her as if it were Cleopatra's."

GEN. BUTLER IN NEW ORLEANS.

The Delayed Report of General Wm. F. Smith and James T. Brady, Esq.

Some time before the war closed, Major General Wm. F. Smith—better known as "Baldy" Smith—and James T. Brady, the distinguished New York lawyer, were constituted a commission to proceed to New Orleans and investigate certain matters connected with the military administration of General Butler there. The report, though filed in the War Department, has never been made public, except so much of it as follows, which the correspondent of the Herald has been able to procure. It appears to be genuine:

Mr. Jacob Barker, examined February 9, 1865—States that when General Butler arrived in New Orleans he told witness that he had no money, or very little in the military chest—about $100; witness at his request loaned him $5,000, afterwards paid; "about this time he told me (Barker) that he wanted more money, $100,000, on his own account, for his bill in Boston; I agreed to let him have it; he took the greater portion, for which he gave me his exchange on Boston, which was honorably paid;" "of this money he drew most of it on me for gold in favor of his brother; subsequently he told me that his object in this negotiation was to get funds to loan his brother."

Mr. B. F. Smith, examined 27th of February, 1865—A resident of New Orleans for twenty-two years; was there when General Butler arrived; that he was interested with Colonel A. J. Butler, brother of General Butler, in carrying goods across the lake, consisting of salt, quinine, shoes, corn, groceries and liquors, which went mostly into the hands of the rebels, as Colonel Butler well knew; he (witness) received one-third of the profits realized upon them. The witness was asked, "Do you believe that General Butler knew about this trade?" Answer—"Yes, sir; I told him; he asked me the question, and $13,000 worth went after that;" General Butler had informed him that no more goods should go out unless cotton returned; went to the rebel authorities—General Lovell returned and told him (Butler) what General Lovell had said; had no difficulty in getting in or out; had five or six schooners chartered; Colonel Butler got everything fixed up; French, Provost Marshal General under Butler, signed the passes; that after his interview with the rebel General he reported progress to General Butler and Colonel Butler, and that the cotton came in and the goods went out; value of the goods between $12,000 and $13,000; 196 bales of cotton at forty-five cents a pound; Colonel Butler did not give him $2,500; the rebel party offered the witness $10,000 for his interest in the thing. States further—Does not know what his claim was against Butler, but that he was to have one-third of the net proceeds; paid ten cents a pound for the cotton and got forty-five cents, amounting to about $30,000; made about 200 per cent. on the goods; salt sold at $30 a sack; made about seventy-five per cent upon the cotton. Witness further says that he was a rebel at the time, and did not take the oath until after these transactions.

W. W. Watson, examined March 1, 1865—States that the witness Smith did a great deal of business during General Butler's administration; at the time he saw Smith the business was not carried on very well, and Smith told General Butler that he would retire; says he has no doubt he filled out the General's passes in a written form; saw his book and his passes that were not signed by the General, but that General Butler filled the passes up; witness proceeds: "He (Smith) cleared three vessels from here (New Orleans) to Matamoras, among which was the Mary Davis; when Admiral Farragut was informed of it he sent a gunboat and took the supercargo (Reed), General Butler's brother-in-law; Farragut took his pass and went up to the General with it, and asked him if it was his handwriting, to which the General replied, 'That is A. J.'s handwriting.' A. J. Butler was then arrested and paroled, and afterwards taken up by a picket and brought back to New Orleans, and having given security in $30,000 bond finally ran away. The permits Colonel Butler made out contained a great variety of articles, and instanced one to a man named Long to take a vessel of about eighty tons to Mobile laden with provisions, &c. He was to bring back the money belonging to the Merchants Bank. Col. Butler and Mr. French made out the list of medicines and assisted in getting the medicines to send by this vessel; says that he has reason to suppose that General Butler was interested in these operations, but did not know the fact, but gives as a reason that they had no money until General Butler got $320,000 out of the city treasury, and that he saw the first thousand dollars counted out on the table in Colonel Butler's office. General Butler, General Shepley and Duer gave an order to deliver this money to A. J. Butler, and it passed into his hands; did not see the money used, but A. J. Butler asked him to pass $20,000 to a planter on the coast, which he refused to do; states further that A. J. Butler was engaged in removing crops from plantations to the city; the boat used was guarded by from twenty-five to fifty soldiers; the boat would return to the city with 700 or 800 hogsheads of sugar, and he understood that this sugar was seized and sent to New York through the hands of A. J. Butler, and the proceeds of the cargo passed into the hands of A. J. Butler & Co., or their agents; the boats employed were the Iberville, Laurel Hill, the Empire Parish and the Lieutenant Morris, which were in the employ of the United States government; the Iberville was chartered by Colonel Schaffer and Mr. Bloomer, who did the outside business for Butler at five thousand dollars per month; these boats paid no freight to the Quartermaster's department; witness paid the teamsters and wagoners employed in the work, the boats all passed out of the port of New Orleans free of any charge or tax; says he suggested to General Butler that the Government transports might be ballasted with sugar; the General replied that it would not be proper, for the port was not open, but finally said he might do so, provided it was "sand" instead of "sugar;" did not pay Butler any freight upon this ballast, but commenced going around to persons who wanted to ship sugar to New York and told them that it would be taken for ten dollars a hogshead, and to say that it was sand if any inquiries were made about it; the port was not opened until the middle of June; this sugar was shipped in May; General Butler said it would break the blockade in the eyes of foreign governments if we were found shipping from here (New Orleans) before the port was opened: "when Colonel Butler came here (New Orleans) he sent Captain Turner and desired an introduction to me (Watson); I went down, and he (the Colonel) stated that he had been informed I was the only person capable or willing to do business, and as there was a great deal of shipping to be done that if I would do it he would furnish offices, stationery and clerks, and would divide with me; I declined doing so, when he sent for me again and insisted upon my doing so; I heard him say to the Captains of vessels, "When you arrive in New York lay off in the harbor, go to the Quartermaster and get your charter cancelled, then haul alongside the pier and discharge your cargo to the consignees, who will pay you $2 a hogshead; keep your mouths shut." States that he engaged the freight for $10 a hogshead; does not know what became of the other $8, but supposed the Government consigned to the Quartermaster and collected the freight in New York; supposed everything was proper; Colonel Schaffer cancelled his bonds by paying $60,000, as they would not bear investigation. (Pages 149 to 156.)

R. Bloomer, examined 23d February, 1865—States that he was the guardian of the children of one Mr. May, who had an interest in the steamers New Orleans, Southerner, Belle Lee, Johnnie Rogers and the Simpson; these boats were run during General Butler's administration on capital "probably" furnished by Colonel Butler; Colonel French became interested in them shortly after they arrived at New Orleans; he first became interested in the Southerner; he bought one-third, for which he paid $6,000; the boat earned the one-third the first week she arrived; these boats brought the agricultural produce of Louisiana to market; they got into trouble every week; they were seized by military authority, and it became my (witness's) duty to get them released; generally went to Col. Butler, and he would see persons in authority and they were generally released; sometimes they were released in court; Col. French was the Provost Marshal General during the administration of Gen. Butler. (Pages 156 and 157.)

George Honnewell, examined May 5, 1865—States that on the 17th of September, 1862, General Butler compelled him to sell to him the steamer Nassau for $31,360, in current funds; he called it $28,000 in greenbacks; he gave me his check on the Citizens' Bank for $31,360, equal to $28,000 in United States Treasury notes; I here offered to charter her to the Government for $50 a day, and if that was too much they might have her for forty; he (Butler) said he was going to send her on a perilous errand and could not charter her; General Butler sold the steamer a few days afterwards for $45,000 in greenbacks; he afterwards chartered her to the Government for $350 a day—$10,500 a month; I saw the check for the first month's charter. (Page 157-8.)

Walter Whitman's so called poetry—rather selections from it—have been published in London. Concerning this lusty author's productions, Mr. Smalley writes to the Tribune as follows: No publisher could be found—not even Mr. Swinburne's—willing to affront both the law and the public sense of decency by an unexpurgated issue of writings which owe their toleration in America to their obscurity. In private, Mr. Whitman has been more or less a topic of discussion. I have never yet heard, from any competent source, a favorable opinion on his claims. I have heard but one such opinion from any English source whatever, and that was from a poet whose critical judgment may have yielded to his sympathy with the worst eccentricities of Whitman's muse. But there is plenty of stern criticism from men who are usually tolerant, and of contemptuous criticism from men who are usually merciful. Mr. Carlyle likens him to a buffalo, useful in fertilizing the soil, but mistaken in supposing that his contributions of that sort are matters which the world desires to contemplate closely.

THE Philadelphia Press refers to the political claims of General Negley, as follows: A strong movement is developing in Pittsburgh to bring forward as the candidate for the Congressional honors of the Twenty-second district, Major General James S. Negley, who represented Pennsylvania with such distinguished ability and conspicuous gallantry on the fields of Stone river and Chicamauga. In the army of the Cumberland General Negley commanded a division in which Eastern Pennsylvania was largely represented, and his old comrades and friends in this end of the Commonwealth will learn with pleasure of the merited prospects of their former chief.

THE CAPITAL.

The Impeachment Situation Unchanged.

Vote on the Whisky Tax To-day.

Meeting of the Southern Republicans.

THE STATE OF AFFAIRS IN TEXAS

Persecution of Union Men.

Rumor that the President will Resign.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 19, 1868.

The Situation.

The anxiety to learn the situation of the impeachment question has prevaded all circles today. Little has become known as to the views of Senators upon any particular article, nor has any thing come to light to impair the confidence which the Republicans have felt for the last two days in conviction. The Senate will open at ten o'clock, and the first question for settlement will be the manner in which Senators shall declare their vote. If afterwards debate follows on the main question, it is believed that the result can be correctly foreshadowed by to-morrow night.

The Whisky Tax.

There has been no further discussion in the Ways and Means Committee upon the rate of tax on whisky since the amendment made by the chairman, Gen. Schenck, in the House a few weeks since, and the final vote on this rate has not yet been taken. It will probably be decided to-morrow. Commissioner Wells is collecting statistics on the subject, which thus far go to show that the annual product does not exceed fifty millions gallons. It has been determined to compel prompt payment on whisky already in bond, so as to empty class B warehouses with a view to closing them as soon as possible.

Relief from Political Disabilities.

The Reconstruction Committee will probably report to-morrow in favor of adding the name of Nathaniel Boyden, member elect from the Salisbury, North Carolina, district, to the bill relieving political disabilities. Mr. Boyden is returned as a Democrat, though he never voted the ticket of that party. He was a Whig member of the Thirtieth Congress, and a noted Union man during the whole war. He was one of the most prominent in Salisbury in relieving the sufferings of our prisoners in the pen there.

Confederate Cemetery.

A tract of ground on the field of Bull Run was dedicated yesterday as a cemetery for Confederate soldiers. A number of those interested in the movement left this city and Alexandria yesterday, and proceeded to the battle ground, where they were met by delegations from various parts of Virginia. Speeches in full sympathy with the occasion were delivered, the principal one by Daniels, from Lynchburg, and Mr. Spalding.

New Church.

The new Congregational Church, which has been erected principally by funds contributed from all parts of the North, was opened for service for the first time to-day. The building seats almost 2,000, and was crowded.

Meeting of Southern Republicans.

A meeting of Southern Republicans now in the city, of whom there are a large number, will take place to-morrow night. The object of the proposed conference has reference both to the admission of Southern States to Congress, and also to representation in the Chicago Convention.

Affairs in Texas.

Ex-Governor Hamilton has reached this city from Texas. He confirms the statements so frequently made that Union men are subjected to severe persecutions throughout the State. He asserts that at least two hundred and fifty Union men have been murdered since the appointment of Hancock to command the Fifth District.

The Soldiers and Sailors of this district will hold a mass meeting here on Tuesday, to nominate delegates to Chicago for the Convention of the 19th inst. Governor Geary, General Logan and Shanks and Senator Wilson, will take part in the proceedings.

Why Don't He?

The Chronicle this morning revives the story that the President is deliberating upon the propriety of filing his resignation in the State Department to-morrow.

RAILWAY MATTERS.

—The McCombs party, who have leased the Mississippi Central Railroad for sixteen years, represent a capital of $16,000,000. During the sixteen years they will control the earnings, pay all the operating expenses and repairs, and appropriate eight thousand dollars per annum to keep up the organization of the company; provide a sinking fund to meet that portion of the debt due the State of Tennessee, which matures after the expiration of their lease, and pay all debts that mature during the lease.

—The Supreme bench at Baltimore has decided in the case against the Northern Central Railway that the railway companies are responsible for goods or freight destroyed by act of God when shown that negligence and delay caused said providential act to fall upon the said property.

—A Springfield, (Ohio) dispatch, dated the 8th, says: The Springfield and Ohio Railroad was sold to-day, in this city, by United States Marshal Hickenlooper. Two bids were received, one from J S Taylor, of Boston, for two-thirds of the appraised value, and the second from Jacob W Pierce, of that city, to whom the road, with all its fixtures, was knocked off, for $100,000. Mr. Pierce is understood to have purchased the road in the interest of the Springfield, Dayton and Columbus Company.

—The Indianapolis Journal says: "We are informed that in a few days there will be effected a consolidation of the Ceveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, and the Bellfontaine railroad companies. The style of the new company is the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis Railroad."

Weston Ready for a Five Thousand Mile Walk.

Edward Payson Weston, the pioneer and best known of American pedestrians, is in New York, and preparing for another and greater feat than that which he accomplished so handsomely last autumn. This time this pedestrian is to walk from Bangor, Maine, to St. Paul, Minnesota, and return to Buffalo, New York, making in all 5,000 miles to be completed in one hundred consecutive days. This feat is to be done for a wager of $25,000 a side, in all $50,000; Mr. Goodwin still backing Weston, and Messrs. William B. Fredericks, Samuel G. Brock, William B. Perkins, J. G. Carroll and Eugene M. Ball backing time. A purse of $25,000 is also being raised to be presented to Weston, if he should accomplish this monster feat. As he will not be allowed to walk on Sunday, he will only have eighty-six secular days in which to accomplish the feat, and will have to make the enormous average of fifty-eight and one-half miles daily in order to win. He will also have to walk 100 miles inside of 23 consecutive hours five times during the march of the 5,000, that is to say, once in each thousand, and should he fail in doing this feat once, he forfeits all claim to the $25,000 purse, and forfeits $2,000 for each event to the backers of time in the wager. He will also walk fifty miles in ten consecutive hours, once in each thousand miles, making five times in all. In both of these feats he will be allowed two trials at each event. If Weston succeeds in accomplishing this he will certainly give the British pedestrians who have been talking so much of late a lesson that will in all probability drive them back to their native shores with a very exalted opinion of American enterprise. Mr. Weston purposes starting on or about the 18th of August from Bangor, Me., and terminating at Buffalo, N. Y., on November 26. He will be accompanied during his entire walk by a party of six sworn judges, and there will be attached to the carriage an odometer for the correct measurement of the distance. During his walk he will pass through twelve different States, and innumerable cities and towns. The first deposit of $5,000 has been made in the hands of the stakeholder, Mr. Elias.

INCARNATE LAZINESS.—We have a sloth on board, the most fascinating of all our pets to me—not certainly for his charms, but for his oddities. I am never tired of watching him, he looks so deliciously lazy. His head sunk in his arms, his whole attitude lax and indifferent, he seems to ask only for rest. If you push him, or if, as often happens, a passer-by gives him a smart tap to arouse him, he lifts his head, and drops his arms so slowly, so deliberately, that they hardly seem to move, raises his heavy eyelids, and lets his large eyes rest upon your face for a moment with appealing, hopeless indolence; then the lids fall softly, the head droops, the arms fold heavily about it, and he collapses again into absolute repose. This mute remonstrance is the nearest approach to activity I have seen in him.—Agassiz's Brazil.

CITY MATTERS.

SUSPECTED MURDER.

A Negro Man Charged with Poisoning His Wife—The Accused Committed to Jail on the Charge—Coroner's Investigation.

On Saturday morning the wife of a colored man named Lewis Lane, residing in the rear of No. 211 Wylie street died suddenly, and it was thought under suspicious circumstances. The report soon after obtained extensive circulation that the husband had administered poison to the deceased, which accounted for the suddenness of the death.

Samuel T. Lindsey appeared before Alderman Butler soon after it became known that she was dead and made information against Lane charging him with maltreating his wife, and the Alderman, in the absence of Coroner Clawson, who had gone to Osborn Station to hold an inquest, proceeded to the house indicated, and empanneled a jury for the purpose of investigating the circumstances connected with the death. Lane was first placed under arrest, and then the examination of the witnesses was proceeded with.

The testimony adduced shows that the deceased was in apparent good health on Thursday. Lane on that day took a bottle of whisky home with him, and his wife drank of it. She was taken ill soon after with vomiting and violent cramps, but partly recovered. On Friday evening she was again taken ill, with symptoms similar to those exhibited on Thursday. Some of the neighbors called at the house, but Lane refused them permission to see her. They suggested that a physician be sent for, but he remarked that she did not need a doctor, he having given her a "dose" himself. Lane then locked the door, after again an entrance. Saturday morning at six o'clock he informed a neighbor that his wife was dead, after which he sent word to her relatives. Following is the testimony:

Rachel Kenny, who lives in the upper story of the house occupied by the deceased, testified that the deceased informed her the day before her death that her husband had brought to her a bottle of whisky and that she (the deceased) drank it. She had been sick and vomiting at the time she told witness this.

Mary Kenny, who resided at the same place, corroborated the testimony of the former witness.

Grace Allis, Annie Henderson, Eliza Jones, Mary Leonard, Elizabeth Rea and Emeline Hall were sworn, and testified in substance about that sworn to by the first witness.

Fleming Kenny, who lives in the same house with Rachel and Mary Kenny, testified that on Friday night he heard the deceased ask her husband to go for a doctor, and that he (the husband) hooted her and refused to go.

Drs. G. H. McNary and Alex. Black, who were present and heard the testimony, were called, and stated that they could not tell what caused death, and could tell nothing about the case without making a post mortem examination.

No further testimony was elicted and the inquest adjourned to meet at Alderman Lindsey's office, in the Sixth ward, on Saturday morning next at nine o'clock.

Drs. McNary and Black removed the stomach of the deceased, and it will be placed in the hands of an analytical chemist for examination.

A charge of murder was then preferred against Lane, and he was committed to jail to await the result of the post mortem examination. In the jail office while Deputy Warden Smith was searching the accused, he suddenly drew from his coat pocket a bottle containing a liquid and threw it into the fire. The bottle was dashed to pieces, but a portion of the liquid splashed against the fire wall in the grate. A piece of the bottle and brick upon which the liquid splashed were taken charge of, and a substance resembling arsenic adhered to both. Lane said it was medicine he had been taking, and that he had thrown it in the fire to get rid of it. Both will be turned over to a chemist for examination. Lane had a leather satchel, which, on being searched, was found to contain seven or eight small bottles filled with drugs of different kinds, none of which were labelled. The defendant is about forty-five years of age, and bears an unenviable reputation among his neighbors. The deceased is said to have been Lane's fifth wife. Report has it that Lane has been up on charges of a similar nature before, and that he served a term in the Penitentiary for poisoning his wife. He also, it is stated, set fire to a house in which another of his wives were, and she escaped by jumping from a second story window.

The New Night Train on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The new time table goes into effect on the Pennsylvania Railroad to-day. The new night train, leaving this city at ten minutes before nine o'clock, will be a great accommodation to all persons residing along the road between this city and Latrobe, which point it will reach at twenty minutes after eleven. Returning, it will leave Latrobe at a quarter before six o'clock, and reach the city at ten minutes before eight o'clock. There are hundreds of persons residing within a few miles of the city, on the line of the road, who will be greatly accommodated by this additional train. It will also prove a great advantage to those who reside between Turtle Creek and Latrobe, and who have heretofore had to depend mainly on the Johnstown train in getting to and from the city. Formerly they have had but four or five hours to attend to business, if they wished to return home the same day; but under the new arrangement they can have from eight in the morning until eight at night. This is a progressive movement on the part of the officers of the road, and as such will no doubt prove mutually advantageous to the public and the company.

Delirium Tremens.

On Saturday afternoon, two citizens residing near Corks Run in Chartiers township came to the Mayor's office, having in their charge a young man, about thirty years of age, who was laboring under a severe attack of delirium tremens. The gentlemen in question found the unfortunate man near the river bank, where he was attempting to drown himself. They immediately took charge of him and thus prevented the accomplishment of his designs, after which they brought him to the city and placed him in the lock-up as stated. He had not been in the watch-house long until his wife called and at once recognized him as her husband. She stated that they had arrived in this city on Saturday morning from New Orleans. They intended to go through to New York, but the husband had wandered away from the Union Depot, and nothing was known of him until found by the gentlemen alluded to at Corks Run. He is very violent, and no one could go near him. He was committed to jail for ten days at the expiration of which time it is expected his condition will be improved. His name is Horrege Higgins.

The Daily Commercial

MONDAY, MAY 11, 1868.

The Commercial is the largest daily paper in the State, and gives daily one-fourth more reading than any other paper in Pittsburgh. It is the only Pittsburgh paper that uses the telegraph liberally, gives full market reports, and all the news of the day.

As proof of the estimate placed on the market reports of the Commercial, we will state that they are regularly copied by the New York Economist, Shipping List, Iron Age, and other papers of like character in that and other cities, and that leading English commercial papers and circulars regularly reprint them with credit. There is within five hundred miles, hardly an Iron Factory, Oil Refinery, or leading manufactory of any kind that is not a subscriber to the Commercial, principally, because its reports are the only full and reliable given of the Pittsburgh markets.

WEEKLY COMMERCIAL.

Presidential Year—20 Copies for $25.

In clubs of twenty the Weekly Commercial will be sent for $1 25 a copy—but in no case will an order for less than twenty be received. This reduction has been made to meet the wishes of many friends who stand ready to give the Commercial an extensive circulation.

At this rate it is the cheapest—as it is one of the largest and best—papers in the country. Besides political reading, each number will contain all the news, a large variety of Literary, Agricultural and Home Reading, and the fullest Reports of all the leading markets of the country. The market reports alone are worth ten times a year's subscription.

Our friends everywhere are requested to act as agents. Address,

COMMERCIAL, PITTSBURGH.

CROP AND FRUIT PROSPECT.

Our friends everywhere will confer a favor by writing us briefly concerning the grain and fruit prospect, and the farming and business prospect generally. We shall be obliged for any item of local interest that may be within their knowledge.

Florida falls into line on the return march of States into the Union. The election in that State last week resulted in the ratification of the new Constitution and the election of the Republican candidates for State offices, a Republican Congressman and a Republican Legislature.

The act restoring Arkansas to her proper place in the family of States, only awaits the action of the Senate. We conclude it will not wait long. So at last do we see the beginning of the end which shall make the Union whole again—a consummation long prevented by the President, who, by the rigorous application of the Constitution, has only one day more of official life.

The Illinois State Convention last week made no expression of preference for the Vice Presidency; the Chicago Journal, however, says that "the sentiments of individual delegates strongly inclined to Hon. Hannibal Hamlin of Maine." "The poetical justice of such a preference," says the Journal, "on the part of Mr. Lincoln's State, as well as the consistency of the delegation that, in the last National Convention, voted solid for Mr. Hamlin against Mr. Johnson, on every ballot, is manifest."

Should the verdict sustain impeachment, Mr. Johnson will be out of office at once, and the oath will be speedily administered to Mr. Wade by the Chief Justice. If the verdict is rendered to-morrow, Mr. Wade will probably be inaugurated Wednesday, and without further delay enter on the duties of President of the United States. So beautifully is all the machinery of our Government adjusted that not a jar or an instant's interruption need be expected.

Although pretty much everybody believes that we stand on the threshold of a new administration, yet absolutely nothing is known concerning the new Cabinet. Mr. Wade appears to have spoken not so much as a single word about it; and in this he has strictly observed the proprieties of his peculiar position. Wade President will not be far different from Wade Senator. He is too old to materially change in any position. Throughout his public life he has been extreme in pretty much everything. Extreme men have usually been his friends, and he will be likely to call around him extreme men, and have a distinct if not an extreme policy. His first words and acts will foreshadow all this. A positive man himself—if not always politic—serious doubts are not likely to long prevail what sort of an administration we are to have—always supposing the verdict will be for conviction.

The verdict of the High Court of Impeachment will be rendered to-morrow; and we believe that this is the last night Andrew Johnson will occupy the White House as President. To this as the denouement, the signs almost without exception point. Our dispatches, while speaking of the interest felt on the course of certain Senators, do not waver in the confidence all along expressed in the conviction of the President. On the other hand, the President and his friends are said to keep up a degree of hopefulness, rather less than more than they indulged a week ago. The monetary pendulum swings under the influence of prospective conviction. There is a possibility of a delay of a few days. An influence is at work to produce this. It may partially succeed. Several Senators, since the argument closed, have been busy preparing their views. Some of them may require more time. This and the influence working for a postponement till after the Chicago Convention, may bring about a postponement of a few days—not, however, as we believe, till after the 20th. Unless the signs which usually do not fail are false, we have reached the period in the impeachment business, when even a moderate amount of mathematical ability in the White House will suffice for the occupant to compute the hours he has to remain there.

THE PREDOMINATING INFLUENCE IN THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

The action of the members of the New York Legislature in adopting resolutions in favor of the Pendleton doctrine of finance, is a sore defeat to Belmont and the opposition to the Ohio candidate generally. This is the strongest point Pendleton has yet made, and it looks now as though he would have the vote of New York, after Seymour has been complimented. With the Democrats things are drifting irresistibly into the old rut, and the party is bound to throw away its only chance, which would be in cutting loose from the old leaders, nominating some such man as Charles Francis Adams, and repudiating the doctrines of the Chicago Platform. Such a course would open up a possible chance; but so long as the party clings to the old leaders and ideas it cannot hope for recruits; for however strong the disposition to change may be, the people will never trust any party led by the Pierces, the Seymours, the Vallandighams and the Pendletons. The moral and religious element of the nation, which throughout the dark days of the rebellion was our best support, will never trust the leaders of the party who conspired for disunion and sympathized with organized treason. It is fortunate for the Republic that this element exists and that through its influence Christian patriotism is kept alive. It is the greatest tribute to the character of the Republican party that it has the benefit of this influence; and so long as its course is such as to secure this co-operation, its success will be certain.

It is not for us to complain that the Democratic masses do not rise in their strength, emancipate themselves from fatal leadership, and repudiate the agrarian principles of the Brick Pomeroys, the [illegible], the Deans and others who have come to be the accepted expounders of the Democratic faith. It is not an unmeaning fact that the La Crosse Democrat, preaching utterly detestable principles, is the most widely circulated paper which finds favor in the eyes of the Democratic mass and the encouragement of the leaders of the party. There is deep significance in the fact that the circulation of that infamous paper is now rising two hundred thousand, and is rapidly increasing. Its influence is potent. It openly justifies the assassination of Lincoln. It deifies the assassin Booth; and these perfectly infamous avowals find support with the masses of the party to an extent unparalleled in the history of party journalism. There is a significance in this to which men should not close their eyes. Everywhere do we see the party influenced by this detestable journal. The action of the New York Democracy referred to finds an explanation in the fact that this infamous organ of the party supports Pendleton and his doctrines and opposes Belmont. With an influence so baneful predominating, the reason why the Democratic party does not embrace its only chance of success is plain.

NOMINATIONS FIT TO BE MADE.

Of the seven candidates for State offices placed in nomination by the Illinois Republican Convention last week, four are the names of persons who were candidates. There were many candidates, but the Convention, acting with unusual independence and rare good judgment, generally set them aside and took only such as seemed best qualified. The result is a ticket of unusual strength, one which will call out the entire vote of the party and be elected by a large majority. This is the course which right-minded men will at once approve, and will commend itself to the party as a rule. In adopting it the convention insured the the greatest good to the Republican party and principles. It is by disregarding it, and permitting conventions to be packed by candidates, that in nine cases out of ten defeat is brought about. As a general thing the people have come to have but little to say concerning nominations, and so great has become the abuse, and the demand for reform is so urgent, that it will not be safe much longer to disregard it. It would indeed be a sign of better days if conventions of every kind would do as the Illinois Convention has done—nominate solely with reference to fitness, and the unmistakable wish of the people. We hazard little in saying that it will be either this or nominations when made will be supported or not as the voters of the party shall feel inclined. Our convention system for the most part is an organized fraud against popular sentiment, and in no other way can the leaders of the Republican party do so lasting a service as by reforming it altogether. If four of every seven nominations were hereafter to be the names of persons not applicants for office, the work would be more than half done, and the Republican party would receive a new life and vastly increased majorities.

The Philadelphia North American expresses the opinion that "the true course" for Senator Wade to pursue would be to "vote for conviction" even though "his vote" should "make him President." We cannot think so. Senator Wade, as a Senator from Ohio, has an undoubted right to cast a vote on the guilt or innocence of the President. But it would not be in accordance with the conviction in the popular mind as to the "fitness of things" that he should thereby "make himself President." We disqualify judges from sitting in cases where, even by implication, they are interested; persons are deemed incompetent to sit as jurors for the same reason, and it would seem that no man fit for the office would wish to be President in the manner suggested by our Philadelphia contemporary. Early in the trial it was given out that Senator Wade, taking an elevated and patriotic view of the subject, had determined in his own mind to vote on the final result only in the event that his vote was necessary to convict, but that realizing how improper it would be to "make himself President thereby," he would resign as acting Vice President and permit the Presidency to fall on some one else. Such a course would challenge the warmest approbation of his countrymen; but we very much question if the course suggested by our Philadelphia contemporary would. The eminently judicious course of Mr. Wade throughout the trial is in perfect keeping with this understanding of what he will do in case the decision rests with him.

The President Begs.

The National Intelligencer has an article promising that if the President is acquitted, he will behave himself and not break things generally, as is feared. Here he is on his knees:

> If we have correctly stated the position of the President, the thoughtful will see in it an assurance of moderation and conciliation on his part when the [illegible]

This is evidently a promise on the President's part that if the Senate will overlook his past offenses he will promise to do better in the future. As a partial plea of guilty it may have some significance; but as for the promises of the President, they may be taken as only meant to deceive and betray again if another opportunity is granted him.

Just the Difference.

The Chicago Tribune states the distinction between the Republican and Democratic tickets in Illinois—a distinction which relates to the two parties. It is as follows:

> In addition to General Palmer, the Convention selected and nominated from the ranks of the soldiers of Illinois, General Charles E. Lippincott for Auditor, [illegible] for Treasurer, and General John A. Logan for Congressman at large. [illegible]

All sorts of views are taken by Washington letter writers of the impeachment question. Thus the following, by the correspondent of the Boston Advertiser, a thorough Republican journal, bothers himself whether, "to be or not to be," as follows:

> "As a mere question of party, I am not so sure but it would be better for us to be beaten on the issue before the Senate. [illegible]"

The reader from this will at once comprehend some of the counter currents which prevail in Washington, and which raise over the result whatever doubt exists.

The Republicans of Washington met in caucus Thursday evening in the several wards to elect delegates to the Mayoralty convention. The meetings were generally noisy. One of the colored delegates is reported in an evening paper as having made the following funny speech:

> [illegible]

Boston seems to be almost as badly off as Philadelphia, and if the latter feels the need of sympathy in her bad luck in establishing steamships, she will experience no difficulty in finding it. The two fine steamers, Ontario and Erie, built by Boston for the European trade, and which, failing to receive sufficient patronage, have for some time been laid up, are offered for sale. Perhaps a purchaser can be found in Baltimore. Backed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company she is achieving genuine success in attracting commerce to that port—a suggestive fact to Boston and Philadelphia.

The news from the Sandwich Islands establish the entire eligibility of their purchase by Mr. Seward. One thousand and odd earthquake shocks, volcanic spoutings and convulsions unparalleled, leave nothing to be desired; and we shall expect to hear that the distinguished Secretary has made haste to offer liberal terms and close a bargain for the interesting group.

It is of no consequence whatever, nevertheless it would look better in the New York Tribune to give no credit at all rather than habitually credit what it takes from the Commercial to another paper.

POLITICAL.

The New York Tribune makes this observation: Were Mr. Chase nominated and cordially supported by the Democrats, we believe he would come nearer to beating General Grant than any other living man possibly could.

The La Crosse Democrat is of opinion that the Republicans will be beaten in the Presidential election, because "the people are preparing for a great devil hunt about that time, when they will smite, slay, and spare not."

The defeat of Hunnicutt and his hungry followers in Virginia is an encouragement to begin with, and Hunnicutt's ready submission and promise to support the candidate nominated is equally encouraging, and from him really unexpected. The radical and partisan elements, which agitated Virginia to her continual misfortune for the first two years after the close of the war, have become more tractable, and the prospects of permanent peace and prosperity in the State are now better than ever before.

The Chicago Times, a leading organ of the Democracy of the Northwest, says that General Hancock will not answer for the Presidential candidate. Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, it maintains, are to decide the battle, and it adds, "Let not the South, nor any part of it, step in and undertake to say that somebody—that some political nondescript—would be stronger in those States than George H. Pendleton."

At a meeting of the Democratic Club of Richland District, South Carolina, held in Columbia on the 4th instant, General Wade Hampton delivered a speech, in the course of which he made the following important remarks:

> We should go with the Democratic party if they advocate State rights. [illegible]

Referring to the chances of Senator Wilson's nomination as the radical candidate for Vice President, the Springfield Republican, of May 7th, says: "Mr. Wilson's friends at Washington claim that he will have a share at least of the votes for Vice President of at least seventeen States outside of New England. But they evidently apprehend that the rivalry of other New England candidates may prevent his having the united vote of his own section. If that were secured to him, and made earnest in his behalf, his chances for the nomination would be as good as anybody's. Indeed, with New England united and enthusiastic for him, and no Presidential patronage to pick off the camp followers and timeservers, the result would almost certainly be in his favor."

The New York Sun thinks it is well enough that husbands of seduced wives should shoot down the seducer, only it might happen that now and then the injured husband would make a mistake and kill the wrong man. Therefore the Sun is of the opinion that, having laws against murder, it would be best to enforce them; hence the virtual acquittal of Cole, who shot Hiscock for seducing his wife, was not the thing to do.

Reason as you may, the average judgment of intelligent people will not be seriously offended by the failure of the jury to find Cole guilty of murder. So long as we do not punish seducers, husbands, brothers and fathers will find favor in many eyes when they summarily kill the seducer of a wife, sister or daughter. The fact may not make the killing right, but it has been a long time since such a killer has been executed. No doubt premeditated killing should be regarded as murder in every instance; but what should the punishment of seduction be? In the judgment of many, if capital punishment is to be inflicted at all, seduction should be the crime at the head of the list whereof speedy death by law must follow. But nowhere is this the case. Seducers are rarely punished, and never adequately, except when they are killed by the injured husband, brother or father. It is doubtless against the law, this vengeance, but few there are who would care to set on a jury and condemn to the gallows the husband, brother or father for killing the villain who has seduced his wife, sister or daughter. All this denotes is bad law and worse morals, but it is the all-but settled practice of the highest toned and most thoroughly intelligent communities.

They had a delightful illustration of the exceeding beauties of capital punishment at Haverhill, New Hampshire, last week. The condemned wretch made up his mind to die "game" and in the presence of the assembled thousands he seems to have forgot that he was about to appear in the presence of his final judge, and to have been anxious only to meet the approval of that throng as a man of firmness. And so, as the half hour passed away, and the last preparations were being made, and the sheriff still kept calling over the fleeting minutes, he stood there, enduring the torture which racked his soul, with the hardihood of an Indian at the stake, and finally died, and in his last breath bandying words with the spectators, and the last sounds heard on earth by him were rowdyish commendations of his endurance.

Immediately after the Senate went into secret session Thursday, a tilt took place between Senators Fessenden and Drake. The former asked for time to renew matters before taking the verdict; whereupon the latter expressed his surprise that the master spirit (Fessenden) should want time, when he (Drake), the least of the Senate, was ready. Fessenden rejoined, disclaiming that he was the master spirit, and thought the Senator from Missouri better authority as to himself than others, whereupon Drake said the Senator from Maine was great only in his arrogance, but if reports were true he was likely to become the littlest man in the Senate. The passage caused considerable talk.

It is a Wall street report that no verdict will be rendered in the impeachment case until after the Chicago Convention. This, of course, it is said, has been determined upon, with a view of avoiding serious complications which would probably arise in that body, no matter whether the verdict is in favor of the President or against him.

The heart of "Flora Temple" was gladdened last week by the birth of a daughter by "Hambletonian," his dam by "Lexington;" and the lovers of good horses will be on the qui vive in the future to see what the result of such a combination will be. "Flora Temple" was foaled in 1845 near Utica, New York, and is, therefore, twenty-three years of age, and it is certainly a sign of no ordinary strength of constitution in the line to which she belongs that "Flora" at her advanced age should thus have distinguished herself. "Flora Temple," when four years of age, was sold for $13, and again for $40. In 1850 she was sold for $4,000; in 1859 for $8,000 to Wm. McDonald, of Baltimore. At the age of fifteen she had trotted over fifty successful races. The last race she trotted in was with Ethan Allen and running mate, in which she was beaten by a length in her own best time, (made at Milwaukee, Wis.,) 2:19½. After this she was withdrawn from the public.

The Mania for Hoarding.—The recent story of the woman in Providence, R. I., who had a mania for hoarding clothing and crockery, reminds the Boston Transcript of an elderly maiden lady in one of the coast towns of Maine. Her passion was to make and hoard worsted embroidery. The walls of the several apartments of her house were entirely covered with pictures, both with and without frames, and all her own work. In displaying her treasures she opened a closet, filled nearly six feet high with large rolls of tapestry work. Some of the pictures were several yards long and extended the width of the room. Although upwards of sixty years of age, she worked at a frame upon another, and, as she expressed it, her "handsomest piece."

Those who have carefully examined the constitutions recently adopted in the Southern States, pronounce their provisions for the establishment of schools superior to those of any of the Northern States. This is due, in a great measure, to the National Department of Education, in charge of Dr. Barnard, who furnished to the conventions in the several States such information as would be of benefit to them. They possess the best features of the different State constitutions of the North, and their adoption makes it certain that the South will soon have good common schools.

The appointment of the Hon. Galusha A. Grow to be Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Pennsylvania, indicates that our friends in that State intend to make a strong canvass. If men as eminent as Mr. Grow, and as fully acquainted with the workings of the party, were placed in charge of the campaign in all the States, the vote would be largely increased. Pennsylvania has been rather tardy in getting her canvass open; but now that Mr. Grow has taken command we look for a splendid fight.—N. Y. Tribune.

Hon. A. G. Mackey, of South Carolina, the most prominent Republican candidate for United States Senator, whose election is believed to be beyond peradventure, was an inflexible Unionist during the war, and is one of the most accomplished gentlemen in the State.

Miles O'Reilly has bought a tobacco farm of 700 acres about sixty miles south of Richmond.

The Anti-Secret Society Convention.

To the Editor of the Commercial:

When a body of distinguished clergymen assemble at some central point to confer on the best mode of advancing the moral and religious welfare of men, it is a commanding spectacle, and it is expected of them that they—as individuals and as a body—will adhere strictly to truths. Truth is their ostensible weapon, and truth will prevail over all falsehood and error.

But we have recently had in your city an assembly whose apparent object is to accomplish a work that at best is but questionable—it is not to divert men's minds from false systems of benevolence, not to teach churches how to care for the poor, not to take the work of active christian benevolence out of the hands of the State, and place it where the Bible and God have placed it, on the grounds of every one's duty to God to care for the poor. No; they are gathered for a combative object. They are resolved to uproot secret societies in the United States, and the world. The purpose is a very bold one, to say the least of it. But it is also a very questionable one. For several reasons it is so. 1st. It is notorious that much good is accomplished by secret orders. 2d. An amount of active benevolence is displayed that would be in no other way. 3d. It is too painfully true that just such men as are enlisted in the crusade against secret orders of benevolence have themselves but little hold upon the masses of the world, outside of the churches. 4th. To affirm that those secret societies all expressly contrary to the will of God, is what they never have and never can prove. In all their printed speeches they appear to steer very wide of any proof on this point. And this very point is the gravamen of their indictment against these secret fraternities. Indeed, it is a herculean task to show that men may not accomplish any good unless they follow these illustrious philanthropists, or unless it be consummated in the mode of their selection.

But there are one or two points in the printed history of their proceedings which call for notice. One is that their meetings had a sharp tinge of fanaticism. They appeared to overlook the actual fact that those secret societies accomplished good. Another is: They sanctioned by their applause and approbation otherwise, some outrageous calumnies upon their fellowmen who are connected with some of these orders. For instance, one Rev. Baird indulged in charges of actual crime against the Masonic fraternity. He arraigned the system as inculcating infidelity. He claimed that he had taken a number of degrees and that the order denied the mediation of Jesus Christ. Now I know that Rev. Mr. Baird on this point falsifies. He may do this from cloudy perceptions of the facts, or he may do it from personal motives of ill-will, but he misrepresents the facts. He ought to know, if he had been disposed to know—that Masonry acknowledges the truth and authority of the whole Bible, and especially of the Christian religion. But he has also represented it as teaching perjury to judges—to men in places of civil trust,—that they are, from assumed duties to Masonry, to violate their duties to mankind. Now I publicly brand this statement as false, and declare that Masonry teaches no such thing—nor does it sanction it. And I can bring a thousand witnesses against him in this very city—men whose character for truth is as good as his ever was or ever will be.

But he does not stop with this. He makes a statement to show that the order sanctions murder. He tells this to the public, but is careful to avoid giving the name of the place or of the lodge. There is good policy in this. He might be met on this public slander. Not only so, but his object is plainly to stamp the fraternity as a brotherhood of murderers. Now, this same charge is sanctioned by the silent approval of the body of men who were there. They thought to revive the old calumny, the old prejudices, the ancient spirit of hate against secret orders. But how many can he persuade to believe it? Was he joining in and giving consent with men-slayers, when he entered the fraternity, and while he was with them? Do the thousands of professed Christian men, clergymen as well as laymen, consent not only to infidelity, to injustice, but to violence against human life and human society while they belong to them? Are all the public documents of Masonry lies and pretences, and these men hypocrites in supporting them? And is Rev. Mr. Baird the only honest and illustrious hero among thousands in coming out from among them? Rev. Mr. Baird may believe this and he may not. The ardent and peculiar class of philanthropists who heard him may believe it, for it makes heroes of them all, as in the same category of heroism and pure religion. But we opine it will take more credulous masses than the general American public to swallow again, on the veracity of Rev. Mr. Baird and his coadjutors, the resurrected slanders of forty years ago.

Borough Election in Baden.

Baden, Pa., May 8, 1868.

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Commercial:

The citizens of Baden borough, Beaver county, Pa.—incorporated during the present session of the Legislature—held their first election for Borough officers to-day, with the following result:

Burgess—David Anderson.
Council—John Deppold, Sr., L. I. Berry, R. C. Macanney, T. W. Fowler, Alexander T. Forsyth.
Judge of Elections—L. Alexander.
Inspectors of Elections—John Hicks, L. I. Perry.
Auditors—Enos Hill, L. Alexander, G. Y. Beale.
Assessor—James Moore.
Justices of the Peace—Enos Hill, T. A. Herring.
School Directors—T. W. Fowler, three years; W. H. Moore, three years; John Deppold, Sr., two years; Henry A. Bryan, two years; C. Bentel, one year; T. W. Devore, one year.
Constable—Jas. C. Stough.

PERSONAL.

—The Desmoines (Iowa) Register says the song "Tramp, tramp, tramp," was written by Lieut. S. H. M. Byers, of the Fifth Iowa Infantry, while in the rebel prison at Andersonville.

—The Newark Courier speaks of Olive Logan's "former husband." Who is her present husband?

—A correspondent of the Tribune, referring to the message of Governor English to the Connecticut Legislature, says: "The message is very well written, and in that particular reflects credit upon the ability of Mr. R. W. Wright, the Governor's Private Secretary." The Governor may not possibly consider this a compliment.

—There is a struggle between the cities of Georgia to have Bishop Beckwith for a resident. In Atlanta a company has been formed to purchase and present to him the Lyon House, a fine establishment, for a residence, if he will make Atlanta his home; at Athens, "the charming Chase place" has been conditionally bargained for, for the same purpose; in Augusta two beautiful suburban residences have been tendered, from which to make his selection, upon condition that Augusta be selected as his home; and in Savannah a superb mansion has been tendered, and an offer made to contribute two thousand dollars by the people of the city in addition to his regular stipend.

—The Prince Imperial has made a visit to Brest in the royal yacht the Reine Hortense, escorted by the armor plated squadron under the orders of Vice Admiral Dampierre. The Prince appears to be enjoying himself greatly, at least if we may credit the correspondent of the Figaro, who spins a quire about his Imperial Highness amusing himself with shying overboard the lanyard of an old veteran while entirely occupied in performing his salute. The Journal adds that the Prince was severely reprimanded by his Governor General, Frossard, inasmuch that a coolness existed between them for the remaining part of the day.

—Edwin Booth has had a gold crown built in Boston for his "Richard" at a cost of $1,900. There is also a collar of the order of the garter made entirely of gold and silver, and a jewelled cross (spiritus sancti) also a jewelled sword and dagger, mounted in real stone, the hilt and scabbard covered with gems.

—Robert Browning wrote a letter to an English paper stating, in correction of the error of some writer, that Mrs. Browning was not the daughter of a "retired merchant," but of "a private gentleman." Whereat followed great quizzing at the supposed snobbery. But the distinction exists where Mrs. Browning was bred; and suppose that we imagine that Robert Browning thought solely of correcting a mistake.

—The Prince of Wales, it is said, is getting up a new club in London. The story goes that the number of members is restricted to 350, who are all to put down £100 each to start with, beside an entrance fee of thirty guineas, and an annual subscription of twenty-five. The great feature of the club is to be an American bowling-alley. Only young men are to be admitted. The building is to be just opposite the Guards' Club, in Pall Mall—quite handy to the Prince's town residence. Poor young man! He must want amusement badly, and it is to be hoped that his new scheme will fully answer his expectations.

—A New Orleans correspondent of the Missouri Republican says that many of the depositors in Jacob Barker's broken Bank of Commerce were of the poorer classes, grocery women, draymen and laborers, who were in the habit of laying up their weekly savings in Mr. Barker's vaults. And some of them, reduced by the bank's failure to absolute need, are even now vindictive, and loud in their denunciations of the feeble old man. And yet, nearly in his ninetieth year, his long whitened locks falling upon his bent shoulders, his face almost in a second childishness, his step tottering and feeble, Jacob Barker is shrewdly alive to business, and looks forward to liquidating his liabilities and again drawing upon Liverpool or London sight drafts for any reasonable amount. He may occasionally be seen upon the street, or riding in the street cars, indifferent to all the glances of the curious, only thinking of the golden future which may be in store for him.

—Queer things happen now a days, says the New York Sun, and one of the queerest is the spectacle of our friend Mr. George Wilkes, on the floor of the Senate, betting $100 to $50 on the conviction of Andy Johnson, with another friend of ours, Mr. Theodore Tilton, standing by and officiating as stakeholder.

—When Mr. Cox, the lawyer who defended ad interim after he was arrested, was on the stand, Judge Curtis asked him "What time in the day it was when they had an interview with the President?" He replied, "Four o'clock in the afternoon." The Judge asked him what the President said. Butler started up, with that inimitable way of his, saying, "I object; we do not want to know what the President said after four o'clock." A general roar followed.

NATIONAL MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION.

First Annual Meeting at Cleveland, Ohio, Wednesday, May 27, 1868.

This Association, formed at the National Manufacturers' Convention at Cleveland, last December, aims to secure unity of action and mutual acquaintance and co-operation for the common benefit of our varied industry and skill, among all kinds of manufacturers and producers of necessary and useful staples or articles of taste and elegance.

A general attendance is urged from all parts of the country. The report of the delegates to Washington, sent from the convention last winter, to ask for reduction of taxes, reform of revenue officials and retrenchment and economy in the government expenses, will be presented, and that report will clearly show the benefit of organized and continued effort.

As other reforms are needed, and as Government expenses should be still further reduced millions of dollars, it may be deemed best hereafter to send men of ability, character and practical business experience, as delegates to Washington, to forward objects of vital moment to the people.

Matters of importance touching future plans and efforts and a more perfect organization, will be brought before the meeting and a large attendance is hoped and expected. Let all towns and cities send delegates, and let individual manufacturers come also.

The sessions will probably occupy two days, and will open at 10 A. M., the 27th.

Our Soldier Dead.

Hon. John A. Logan, Commander-in-Chief of the [illegible] Army of the Republic, has issued [illegible] Orders No. 11, from which we take the following extracts:

"The 30th day of May, 1868, is designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers and otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies lie in almost every city, and village, and hamlet, and church yard in the land. In this observance no form or ceremony is prescribed, but posts and comrades will in their own way arrange such fitting services and testimonials of respect as circumstances may permit.

"We are organized, comrades, as our regulations tell us, for the purpose, among other things, of preserving and strengthening those kind and fraternal feelings which have bound together the soldiers, sailors and marines who united to suppress the late rebellion. We can not aid more to assure this result than by cherishing tenderly the memory of our heroic dead, who made their breasts a barricade between our country and its foes.

"Let us, then, at the time appointed, gather around their sacred remains and garland the passionless mounds above them with the choicest flowers of spring time; let us raise above them the dear old flag they have saved from dishonor; let us in this solemn presence renew our pledges to aid and assist those whom they have left among us a sacred charge upon a nation's gratitude—the soldier's and sailor's widow and orphan.

"It is the purpose of the Commander-in-Chief to inaugurate this observance with the hope that it will be kept up from year to year while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of his departed comrades. He earnestly desires the public press to call attention to this order, and lend its friendly aid in bringing it to the notice of comrades in all parts of the country in time for simultaneous compliance therewith."

The Democratic Key Note.

The Washington correspondent of the Charleston Courier writes:

Some of the Democratic politicians, despairing of the availability even of General Hancock or Mr. Pendleton, are now earnestly urging Senator Hendricks, of Indiana, upon the attention of the party as a suitable candidate for the Presidency. Mr. Hendricks as the nominee for the first, and Governor English or Mayor Hoffman for the second office, will command a very strong support, but it cannot be denied that Mr. Pendleton has struck the political key to which the whole West respond. Repudiation and paper money are the demands of the West. Mr. Pendleton had the sagacity to see this condition of the public mind a year in advance of the Republican leaders, and promptly availed himself of it. Of course he abjured all the old principles of the Democratic party for the sake of new and more popular issues. The abolition of slavery was never more popular in the West than is now the repudiation of the public debt in the same section of country. The $3,000,000,000 in slave property has been destroyed, and an equal amount in Government securities represents the cost of slavery extinction. The West assisted in contracting the debt, but refuses to pay it. Mr. Pendleton is, however, consistent in his position, for he was opposed to the war, and to the abolition of slavery, and to the contraction of the war debt.

FOR SALE.

Valuable Timber, Coal and Iron Lands in Pennsylvania.

The undersigned offer for sale that valuable tract of land in Clearfield county, Pennsylvania, on the West Branch of the Susquehanna River, (township of Covington and Krathaus,) known as the Krathaus Estate and containing above 5,000 acres.

The property is heavily Timbered with White Pine and White Oak, watered by never-failing streams; affording facilities for the erection of Grist and Saw Mills, and it is extremely valuable for lumbering purposes.

Abounding with inexhaustible beds of the finest Bituminous Coal, Iron Ore, Limestone, Slate Fire Clay, &c., the value of its mineral resources is beyond computation. A railroad from Bellefonte, runs to within nine miles of Krathaus, and other roads and branches are projected which will approach it still nearer. The advantages of Karthaus, for the manufacture of iron on a basis of economy, is unsurpassed if equalled in the State of Pennsylvania.

Professor Johnson, in a Geological Report on this Estate, says: "A position for the manufacture of iron on a large scale is chiefly found in the abundance of all the materials and their immediate proximity to each other, and to a stream which supplies a competent water power for driving machinery."

A portion of the land is well adapted to agricultural purposes. There are on the estate a Stone Dwelling, also a Frame Dwelling, &c.

The Mule.

The following mulish essay we find in a church annual called "A Fairy Favor," but from whose pen or where printed does not appear:

Now, a mule is no common animal. He has passions, affections, vices, and virtues, like any Christian animal; and I never hear Shylock's indignant assertion of his common humanity, without thinking of the poor, neglected mule. Grant is a great man. So is Johnson. But the part performed by the mule in the suppression of the rebellion requires no eulogy. He is one of the real saviors of his country, and not a candidate for the Presidency. Let us look at his moral and intellectual attributes.

It should be recollected that he is not to be judged like other animals. His celibate life is [illegible] with none of those family affections that gild the monotonous hours of domestic beasts. From the hour of his birth he is an orphan. His father and his mother were not mules, and at his death, like Logan (not the "General"), "his blood runs in the veins of no living creature." Thus left lonely and desolate by his step-mother, Nature, all that he manifests of docility, all that he freely gives of affection, all that he bestows of usefulness in his shadowed life, is the outgushing of his own nobility. If he loves, his affection is unrequited and except General R. B. Marcy, in his "Thirty Years of Army Life," we know of none who have duly honored his devotion.

To those who are kind to him, the mule overflows with loving. He greets the coming of his corn with a loud and cheerful laugh, and he is said to have died from cachination on coming to an unexpectedly good bit of road. He has a language nearly as complex as "Chinook," and in many instances his apparent disobedience is only the ignorance of his driver, who imperfectly educated, cannot "talk mule English." When roused to indignation by neglect, he loudly remonstrates, and in the still watches of the night he can be heard "talking words" about the forage-master, who has left him with only a wagon-tongue to sandwich in between two gulps of air as lunch.

In difficult mountain-passes, on almost impassable ledges of rock, where the stupid horse would hurl himself to destruction, the mule treads with fearless yet cautious step, and carries his rider through in safety. And when thumped and abused, and taxed beyond the limits of mule mortality, he succumbs in hopelessness, he turns one pathetic glance to the merciless lash behind him, and, too dignified to quarrel, lays down and dies. I have seen him die as an act of free volition, based upon a reasonable despair of living any longer to the satisfaction of his taskmaster.

The ears of the mule, in their significant prominence, have much to do with his endurance. If, in swimming a river, he gets his ears full of water, he drowns. In times of intense exertion, when human life is at stake, every inch taken off a mule's ear will enable him to go another mile. A friend of mine, riding a tired mule, was chased by large white wolves. He bethought him of this expedient; but having no knife, he resorted to his teeth. Fast followed the ravening wolves, and faster flew the mule, as Henry gnawed his ears; and when they reached a place of safety, the ears had been devoured to the stubs. The mule is no more, but Henry lives to tell the story—and he is not a man whose word it is safe to question—unless you have your revolver ready.

Moreover, the mule is sympathetic. I once heard a conversation between a mule and a soldier. Both had been turned out of the column as disabled, and were painfully plodding their way through rain and mud by the roadside. The exhausted soldier said, "Well, muley!" and the mule lifted up his voice and wept, whinnering forth a long-drawn passage of soothing sympathy. It was like the symphony of violins before the death scene in "L'Africaine." There was a community of sorrow and sickness, and the two recognized their fellowship.

I was once a believer in the theory advanced by Mr. Samuel Weller, and indorsed by the Pickwick Club, that mules never die, and that no living man, or any acquaintance of any living man, had ever seen a dead mule. It would be pleasant to retain the delusion, and to think that a life so sorrowfully strange should have an ending so peculiar—should terminate in some hidden recess of the arcana of nature, some process of translation, and pass silently and unseen away. The poetic justice of Mr. Dickens led him to believe this a probable legend. Impressed by the shrewd comment and quick observation of Mr. Weller, I, as did Mr. Pickwick, gave a willing "credo" to the story. Alas! that it should not be true; but the bones that bleach, and even the turkey-buzzards of the air, that fatten on our friend, tell us it is a mighty vagary, a delusion!

New Phases of the Eruption of Mount Vesuvius.

For some days past Vesuvius has been diminishing in activity, and during the earlier days of this week hardly a sign of fire has been visible from Naples. Yesterday afternoon, however, the crater made a very satisfactory demonstration, which it was my good fortune to see quite close. We had heard several explosions as we came up the mountain, and had seen an occasional shower of sparks thrown up above the little crater; and these gradually increased until we had taken our stand. Then for more than two hours the hill above us continued to shoot forth an almost constant succession of explosions of brilliant burning stones. I hardly like to use the comparison, but I don't think I can give a better idea of it than by saying that each explosion was like a vast girandole of rockets, only that there was more speed about it, and more variety owing to the different sizes of the stones shot out, and that there was more intense light at the first outburst than in the case of rockets. Flame there certainly was none; this we observed carefully; though the trails of the shooting stones and the illuminated vapor might almost excuse the word.

The noise of the discharges was not a bang; it was a pervading sound, almost exactly resembling the waves on a beach and wind blowing through shrouds. It varied in intensity, but was nearly continuous, and of the character mentioned. The mountain trembled perceptibly enough during the whole of our stay, though not nearly so strongly as it did during my Wednesday visit, when there was scarcely any actual explosion. It is impossible for me to calculate exactly, but I judged that there were from 1000 to 1500 stones in each great discharge, and there were often as many as eight or ten discharges in a minute. The majority of the stones were small—the largest, say as large as two bricks end to end. The large ones mostly fell back into the crater, but the small ones being thrown higher and more acted on by the wind, fell in immense numbers on the leeward slope of the small crater and on the same side of the great cone beyond. To my mind, this was a spectacle hardly less striking than the discharges themselves; at any rate it was quite new to me.

I have often heard it said that the cone becomes "red hot" under such discharges, but this is not an accurate description of what I saw. "Red" is not the word, but "golden," and the cone was not covered even by these copious showers. The sight was far more beautiful than if it had been so. The crowd of golden spots on the dead black surface—the small ones generally resting where they fell, while the large ones rolled through them down the slope—and the constant change, as shower after shower descended, made a variegated and beautiful spectacle, such as was of itself alone worth the ascent. It formed a wonderful pedestal to the explosions which surmounted it, and which were naturally the great attraction. I could not calculate the height to which some of the small stones were thrown, but it was very great. There was generally one which went far higher than all the rest, and pierced upwards towards the moon, who looked calmly down, mocking such vain attempts to reach her. The larger pieces were, with rare exceptions, not thrown so high; indeed, many of them only just appeared over the rim of the cone, above which they came floating leisurely up to show their brilliant forms and intense white light for a second and then subsided again into the abyss. The inference was inevitable that there were many still larger blocks which were not thrown high enough for us to see at all. At 9 o'clock we turned to come down, and after that nothing occurred but the ordinary incidents of the very disagreeable descent of the volcano over and through heaps of coke of the most jagged and wounding forms. The discharges diminished in frequency and fury, and when the carriage turned into the Chiaja and the mountain came into view, a very rare burst from the summit alone remained to tell what we had been seeing.—Letter to London Times, April 4.

Pauper's Funeral in Spain.

We were warned of its approach by the sound of loud talking and laughter, and, on looking out, saw a wretched coffin borne by four men smoking cigarettes, followed by a few lookers on, all appearing equally unconcerned, and preceded by two or three men, who were, I suppose, the mourners, bearing lighted candles in their hands. There was no priest, no pall, no semblance of decency, and by-and-by our disgust was increased to the last pitch by the bearers setting the coffin on the bank, and leaning on it to rest themselves. There is no sort of respect for death in Spain. The body of the pauper is carried to the cemetery in a coffin that belongs to the parish, and is thrust, sometimes almost naked into a hole. The priests do not perform burial service except for those who can afford to pay for it; they read a short service over the body in the church; and when once that ceremony is over, there is no more regard shown for the dead than for the slaughtered horse at a bull-fight.—Matilda B. Edwards.

Sad Case of Suicide—A Young Man Stabs Himself With a Knife and Dies Almost Instantly—Coroner's Inquest.

Yesterday morning at about eleven o'clock, a young man named George Booth Jr., residing in the Ninth ward, while at the house of Mr. Thomas Roberts in the Ninth ward, stabbed himself with a knife and died almost instantly. Coroner Clawson was notified of the fact and yesterday afternoon held an inquest when the following testimony was heard:

S. Young, sworn—This man Booth was sitting in the door of Mr. Roberts's house when I came into the yard, and asked me if I had a knife; I loaned him the one I had in my pocket, and he took it and commenced cutting a corn on one of his toes; he asked if I had any ale in the house, and just as I said no he struck at his breast twice; I said to Mr. Cowley, "My God, Reedy Booth has stabbed himself!" Deceased had been drinking pretty freely lately; he has been working for me, but I had to discharge him on account of his intemperate habits.

Ellen Cowley, sworn—I asked deceased when he came to the house if he had obtained work yet, and he said no and sat down in the door; the next I saw of him Mr. Roberts was holding him; we attempted to render him some assistance but it was of no use, and he died a short time after he had stabbed himself.

Thomas Roberts, sworn—Saw deceased just before he died; he said, "I am a dead man, Thomas," and soon after expired.

Dr. W. D. Kearns, sworn—I find, upon a superficial examination, two incisions in close proximity to the breast; the knife entered between the fourth and fifth ribs, and penetrated into the left oricle of the heart.

The jury found a verdict that the deceased came to his death by a wound inflicted by a knife in his own hand.

Deceased was about twenty-four years of age, and leaves a wife and two children.

SUMMER MILLINERY.—Mrs. M. McNeil, at No. 41 St. Clair street, will open a fine assortment of seasonable millinery goods on Thursday. Give her a call.

THE Best and Original Tonic of Iron, Phosphorus and Calisaya, known as Caswell, Mack & Co.'s Ferro Phosphorated Elixir of Calisaya Bark. The Iron restores color to the blood, the Phosphorus renews waste of the nerve tissue, and the Calisaya gives a natural healthful tone to the digestive organs, thereby curing dyspepsia in its various forms, Wakefulness, General Debility, and Depression of Spirits. Manufactured only by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York. Sold by all druggists. w*

Avoid Poison.

Invalid reader, do you know what nine tenths of the bitter compounds you are solicited by the proprietors to accept as universal panaceas, are composed of? Give heed for a moment. They are manufactured from unpurified alcohol, containing a considerable portion of fusil oil—a poison almost as deadly as prussic acid. The basis of the regular tinctures of the Materia Medica is the same. No amount of "herbal extracts" can overcome the bad tendency of this pernicious element. The essence of sound rye, thoroughly rectified, is the only stimulant which can be safely used as a component of a tonic, alterative and anti-billious medicine, and HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is the only medicinal preparation in the world in which this article is used as an ingredient. Hence the extraordinary effects of this great specific. It gives strength without producing excitement. No other tonic does this. All the ordinary Bitters flush the face and affect the brain. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS diffuses an agreeable calm through the nervous system, promotes digestion and produces sleep. No other tonic so quickly revives the exhausted physical energies, restores the appetite and removes the gloom and depression which always accompanies weakness of the bodily powers. It purges from the system the morbid humors which retard its natural functions, and which bring paleness to the cheek and suffering to the brow. It banishes those clogs upon pleasure, restores the system to high health, and necessarily proves a valuable adjunct to the digestive organs. A trial is all that is needed to establish it in the confidence of the skeptic.

Similia Similibus Curantur.

DYSPEPSIA! DYSPEPSIA! WHAT IS IT? HOW CURED!

Dyspepsia is our National Disease—weak stomach, feeble digestion, distress after eating, costive habit, billious condition. How many suffer with it and its attendant symptoms of low spirits, bad taste, coated tongue, obstructed head, and attacks of headache? Yet how few know how to cure it? Generally, because the bowels are constipated, resort is had to cathartics or laxatives. But such a condition was never cured by cathartics, whose only office is to weaken the digestion, and impair the integrity of the entire assimilative system. But HUMPHREY'S HOMEOPATHIC DYSPEPSIA PILLS—a simple medicated sugar pill—have cured hundreds of the worst and most obstinate cases. This is done simply by improving the tone, and restoring the integrity of the digestive organs, from which result, good appetite, regular habits, a clear head, and buoyant spirits. Such a medicine is a gem, and only requires to be known to be appreciated.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

SATURDAY EVENING, May 9, 1868.

Neither the number nor the bulk of the transactions of last week will equal those of a corresponding period in former years, still there was a healthy tone animating the markets, and a moderate degree of activity was manifested in business and financial circles. Nearly all the manufacturing establishments are running on full time and are enjoying a demand for all their wares. Some particular branches of business are unusually brisk, having orders ahead for months. Money is growing more abundant every day, and there is now an occasional inquiry, on the part of capitalists, for securities in which to invest unemployed balances. It is a noticeable feature of the market, too, that there is a gradual yielding, by money lenders, of extreme views with regard to the high rates which they have been asking and getting for money. The price for the use of money has ruled too high for weeks past, in our local market, and now that the "pinch" is over, it is manifestly the part of wisdom to relax a little on the premiums. We think that we notice a growing disposition with those who have money to lend to invite borrowers and extend more leniency in rates.

In New York the money market remains easy, with money in full supply, the general rate on call loans to large dealers being 6 per cent. The street are generally anticipating that the footings of the weekly bank return of to-day will show differences in some columns as remarkable as that of last week. Certain it is that the flow of money has been to New York all the week, with light drafts from the country: it is believed, also, that the aggregate of loans, if not diminished for the week, has not largely increased.

—A steady demand for governments continues, '62s sell at 109¼; for small '62s 109¼ is bid, at which price there is none to be had. It is said to be doubtful whether an offer of 109¼ would bring out a hundred thousand small '62s, even $100—to say nothing of $50. There is a fresh demand for '64s at 107¼ bid. 7-30s are strong at 107¼ bid, 107⅜ asked.

The following comparative quotations will show the condition of the market:

[illegible]

—The railway share market opened strong for the Vanderbilt shares—New York Central, 129¼; Erie, 69¼; Northwestern preferred, 77; Rock Island, 95⅛; Fort Wayne, 107¼@107⅜; but as the lists were called Central dropped to 127¾; Erie to 68¼; and gave tone to the whole list. St. Paul common sold at 62¼, St. Paul preferred, 75¾; Rock Island, 95¼; Ohio and Mississippi, 31½; Northwestern common, 66¼; Northwestern preferred, 76¾.

Subsequently Central rallied to 128¼@128¾, and Erie, 68¾, Rock Island, 95¾.

There have been large transactions in Erie and Central, but small sales of other stocks. Quicksilver opened at 23, subsequently declining to 20½.

Rock Island was one of the strongest stocks on the list, advancing from 94½@94¾ in the morning to 95½@95¾,—the closing price. Northwestern preferred closed steady at 77, fluctuating during the day between 76½ and 77¼@77⅜. The weakness of Erie while New York Central was strong—when both stocks are known to have been largely held by the same combination—created much comment in the street, and was attributed to the fact that the prominent operators in those stocks had unloaded. Rumors of a difficulty resulting in the expulsion of one of the members of the Central and Erie bull organization were also current. The general market closed dull and inactive.

—Gold is more active and stronger to-day, the premium having passed 40. The following were the quotations: 10:00, 139¾; 10:30, 139¾; 11:00, 140⅛; 11:30, 140⅛; 12:00, 140⅛; 12:30, 140⅛; 1:00, 140⅛; 1:30, 140⅛; 2:00, 140.

—The payments of coin by the Assistant Treasurer in New York on account of May interest have been, up to to-day, as follows:

[illegible]

—In Philadelphia, there is a moderate inquiry for Government loans, and more especially for those of the low denominations of $50 and $100. This demand shows itself most among the German bankers at New York, who are supposed to be buying for foreign account. For the last two or three days, from this cause, the small bonds have sold ¼ to ½ per cent. higher here than the same class of bonds of larger denominations. There is also an increased home demand for the small bonds, investors of limited means putting their surplus money into Governments in preference to holding shares in corporate companies, the prices of which are more fluctuating and less reliable.

—In Chicago the local money market was irregularly reported on Friday. In some quarters there was a good demand on shipping bills, and, in consequence, the volume of the currency at the hands of the banks was being reduced. The demand for discounts is very slim, and there is a general complaint at the scarcity of good commercial paper. The supply of loanable funds is slowly increasing with the majority of the banks, and the money market may be quoted quite easy. In Milwaukee there is a short supply of currency, and her bankers were telegraphing for remittances, but no transactions were made, as the terms could not be agreed upon. The remittances to the country were quite moderate.

Provisions at Cincinnati.

From the circular of George W. Phillips, Jr., of Cincinnati, and who is now represented in Chicago, No. 86 Lasalle street, by Eli Johnson & Co., we learn that the market for provisions early in the week was buoyant, but towards the close the demand fell off to some extent, yet strong holders do not seem disposed to make any concessions of consequence in prices while buyers are hammering it down as much as possible with a view of going in at the decline if any should occur. Stocks are undoubtedly held strongly and an apparent indifference as to the turn of the market at present seems to prevail, confidence being strong in an ultimate further advance. The trade probably has never seen so great an advance in price so soon in the season, and our stocks in first hands have never been so light as at present nor have they ever been held with stronger nerves than now. The market to-day closes dull, quiet, tame, with but little stuff offering and but little wanted.

Mess pork, owing to the decline in New York, has eased up here, and it would be difficult to sell best city at over $28 00 though $30 00 is looked for by some strong in the faith. Prime $25 00, but not in great demand.

Rumps—About all in the West have been bought up by New York parties, and even inferior can't now be had under $25 00.

Lard—Has sold during the week at 19¼c under favorable foreign advices, but this is a large price, and we do not follow it, and to-day 19c is as much as it would bring without any great demand; steam ½c less.

Greases—Scarce and prices nominal. Prime stearine 18½c.

Bulk Meats—Quiet at 13, 15, 16 and 16½c loose for shoulders, sides, clear rib and clear sides. No hams offering.

Bacon—Quiet with some concessions. I quote shoulders 14c; rib sides 16½c; clear rib 17c, and clear 17½@17¾c. Sugar cured hams 20@21c for best brands; plain 19@19c.

Plate Beef—Scarce at $23 00@24 00.

Beef Hams—19@20c.

The exports of the week were 2,848 bbls and 1,358 kegs lard; 984 hhds and 848 tcs bulk and bacon, and 2,718 bbls pork.

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, SATURDAY EVENING, May 9, 1868.

Trade has ruled quiet during the past week, and business was not so active as the previous week. There is little of special interest to report. Prices continue generally without material change from those noted at the commencement of the week. Bacon and lard have slightly advanced. Flour continues active and unchanged. Butter and eggs declined early in the week, but at the close butter advanced.

The receipts of leading articles of produce per river and rail since our last were as follows: Flour 2,644 bbls; apples 161 bbls; cheese 189 bxs; corn 250 sacks; wheat 1,715 sacks; barley 31 sacks; rye 133 sacks; oats 1,362 sacks; butter 30 packages, and bulk meats (loose) 5,732 pcs.

We quote as follows, which are the wholesale store prices, unless otherwise noted:

BACON, LARD, ETC—The market steady. We quote plain S. C. hams 20c; canvassed S. C. hams 21c; shoulders 14½c; rib sides 17c; clear sides 19c; dried beef 23@24c, and lard 20½c ⅌ lb.

LARD OIL—There is a fair demand at $1 55 ⅌ gallon for extra No. 1, and $1 25 ⅌ gallon for No. 2.

BUTTER—We note a slight advance. Choice extra roll sold at 38@40c ⅌ lb. We quote prime to choice at 35@40c ⅌ lb. There has been a large eastern demand, which still continues.

EGGS—There is not a very great demand with considerable amount in store. We quote at 19@20c ⅌ dozen.

DRIED FRUITS—Dried peaches are in demand at 13½@14c ⅌ lb. Apples are dull at 7@7½c ⅌ lb.

APPLES—Prices range from $6@7 50 ⅌ bbl as to quality and quantity.

HOMINY—Sales of flint from store at $6 25 ⅌ bbl.

BRANS—No choice in market and prices nominally $5 ⅌ bushel.

POTATOES—Sales of Peachblow from store at $1 50 ⅌ bushel, and at $4@4 50 ⅌ bbl.

HAY—Loose timothy at the scales was selling at $23@28 ⅌ ton, as to quality. On the wharf 60 bales of hay sold at $22 ⅌ ton.

MIDDLINGS—One car of middlings sold at $2 20 ⅌ hundred.

SALT—Small jobbing lots at $2 ⅌ bbl.

GRAIN.—The receipts of grain continue light and inadequate to meet the demand at present prices. Corn is higher, with sales reported of 600 bushels ear at $1 12, and 300 bushels shelled at the same figure. On the wharf 300 bushels oats sold at 80c, and small lots on the wharf and in depot at 82c per bushel. There is no wheat coming in except that brought from the Western markets. We note a sale of one car No. 1 spring at $2 60 per bushel. In the absence of sales we quote red winter nominally $2 75, and white wheat $2 80 per bushel. Rye is scarce and wanted at $2 0@2 10 per bushel. Barley is in light receipt and nominally quoted at $2 10 per bushel.

FLOUR—Remains quiet and firm. The advance has been maintained. Sales have fallen off during the past few days, owing to the fact that most dealers have been purchasing more than the usual amount. The demand is more general throughout this section, and buyers will be on the market directly again. Our principal operators are not disposed to give way to effect sales, as margins are now small on good reliable brands. Outside flours are not much called for; consumers are more particular as to brands and dealers have to make selections accordingly. One of our dealers reports that he does not handle one barrel low grade to ten last season. Stocks on the market are heavy and receipts are unusually large for this market. Below we give leading brands of flour and prices furnished by a leading house:

T. C. Jenkins's prices, wholesale flour dealer, checkered front, 273 Liberty street:

Dayton Snow Flake White winter	$13 00
White River, Winter and Red Jacket	12 00
Jenkins's Lilly and Favorite, Winter	12 00
Crossett's	11 75
Ceresco and Ford's	11 25@11 50
Medium Brands	10 50@11 00
Rye Flour, ⅌ bbl	10 00
Corn meal, ⅌ bush	1 15@1 20

Sole agent for Crossett's and Ford's flour in this market.

Flour continues active and firm. Orders promptly filled at lowest market rates. Samples sent to dealers at wholesale rates.

Same time 1867	507,457	24,000	102,384

BUSINESS—The sales of the week were large. Trade was brisk and holders of oil were inclined to be in a good humor, owing no doubt to increase in value of both crude and refined. There was a material advance at the wells, up the creek, at Titusville, Tideoute, and all round. The Eastern markets were similarly situated.

CRUDE RECEIPTS—The week's receipts of the raw material by rivers and rail were 12,226 bbls against 10,612 bbls for the previous week, being an increase of 1,614 bbls. The receipts from all sources from January 1st to date were 380,929 bbls; for the same period in 1867 the receipts were 507,457 barrels, being a falling off for this year of 126,487 bbls.

EXPORTS—The week's export East by rail for the week were: Pennsylvania Central, 2,481 bbls; Allegheny Valley, 8,295 bbls; total, 10,776 bbls, against 12,495 bbls for the previous week, being a falling off amounting to 1,719 bbls. The entire export from January to date were 101,839 bbls against 126,384 bbls for the same time in 1867, being a deficiency of 24,545 bbls.

SALES—The week's sales were among the largest we have reported for some time; crude, 57,200 bbls; refined, 55,200 bbls; total, 112,400 bbls, against 74,256 bbls sold the previous week; increase for this week 38,144 bbls.

SATURDAY'S OPERATIONS.—There was a good demand on Saturday, whilst the sales were large and prices pretty well maintained. The Eastern markets were reported dull and weak. At Oil City prices let down and the dispatches were conflicting, quoting oil at the mouth at $3 90@3 90@4 00 ⅌ bbl.

REFINED—The market was steady with a good demand. The sales were liberal. We note the following sales: 1,000 bbls, in 500 bbl lots, standard white, Philadelphia last half of May, 29c; 2,000 bbls, 500 bbls each month, buyer's option, August to November, 31c; 2,000 bbls last half of May, 30c; 500 bbls July buyer's option, 30c; 2,000 bbls last half of August buyer's option, 30c; 3,000 bbls, deliverable 1,500 bbls in June 1,500 bbls July, 29½c; 3,000 bbls June and July, terms private. Antwerp quotations were 41½ francs.

CRUDE—We are noted the following transactions: Sales 2,000@1,000 bbls bulk to arrive, 11c; 10,000 bbls bbls bulk, seller's option in all 1868, at 10½c; 337 bbls Smith's Ferry R R at 11½c; 4,000 bbls first and second water, 11c ⅌ gallon. The market at the close was unsettled.

PETROLEUM MARKETS.

PHILADELPHIA.

The market during the past week has been greatly excited, and the transactions have been extraordinarily heavy. Prices have again advanced 2c ⅌ gallon from the lowest point. The activity has been mostly of a speculative character, a large number of operators from Pittsburgh and the eastward having made their appearance, and the business has been increased by operations of the "shoars," who have been anxious to cover maturing contracts. The Commercial List of Saturday reports sales of 5,000 barrels crude, early in the week, at 17¼@17⅝c; 2,000 barrels since at 18@18¼c—now held at 18¼c; 4,000 barrels do, in bulk, at 17¾@18c; 1,000 barrels do at 14½c, and at the close of the week 5,000 barrels do at 15c; 3,500 barrels for June at 18½c; 1,000 barrels do, in bulk, for June, at 18c, buyers' option; 35,000 barrels refined, in bond, standard white, at 28, 28¼, 29, 29¼, 30@30¼c—closing quiet at 29½c to-day on the spot, and 30c for the last half of the month; 5,000 barrels standard white, for June, commencing at 29c and selling up to 31c—closing with 2,000 barrels to-day at 30c; 12,000 barrels standard white, for July, at 29½@31c; and 2,000 barrels to-day at 31c; 3,000 barrels standard white, for August at 30½c; 1,500 bbls do on secret terms; 1,000 bbls for October at 30½c, b o; 6,000 bbls S W, from August to December, at 30@30½c, b o; 5,000 bbls do do at 31c, b o; 3,000 bbls S W, from July to December, part at 31c, b o, and part at a price kept secret; 1,000 bbls August to November on private terms; 1,500 bbls, May, June and July, at 30¼c, b o; 2,000 bbls do do on private terms; 1,000 bbls July and August at 31c, b o; 1,500 bbls July to September at 30c, b o; 2,000 bbls July to October at 30c, b o; 300 bbls do do at 31c; 2,000 bbls June to September at 31c; 4,500 bbls June to August, part at 29@30½c, b o, and part on private terms; 2,000 bbls June to September at 31c, b o; 2,000 bbls to-day July to December at 31c, b o; 1,500 bbls October to December on private terms; and small lots of free at 34@38c. Residuum is held at $3 00@3 75. In benzine we notice a sale of 1,000 cases at 18¼c. Lubricating oils are in good demand. Sales of Mount Farm at 30c; and 150 bbls Galena, 22 gravity, at 45c—an advance; 500 bbls Volcanic at $33 35c. American natural at 45@60c; and Longmoor at 8@35c.

The receipts for the week were 4,172 bbls crude and 5,720 bbls refined. The exports during the week were 694,326 gallons refined and 112,899 gallons crude; total 807,225 gallons. Total export since January 1, 1868, 9,637,391 gallons against 7,241,394 gallons same time in 1867. Twenty-six vessels are now loading with petroleum for foreign ports.

NEW YORK.

The Shipping List reports less inquiry for crude, in bulk, for immediate delivery, and the market has declined, closing at 13¾@14c; sales 1,800 bbls, in lots, at 13½@14½c; for June delivery there is a fair demand, and sales have been made of 2,500 bbls, first half of the month, at 13½c; 2,000 do last half, 14½c; and 2,000 do, future delivery, on private terms. The stock of crude in yard, we understand, is reduced to about 12,000 bbls. Refined, in bond, continues in light supply, and the market ruled firm at 31c for standard white until yesterday, when there was a concession on the part of holders, and the market closed at 30c; for future delivery there is a good demand, but prices favor buyers. The sales are 5,000 cases standard white, and recently 100,000 do on private terms; for May delivery, 3,000 bbls standard white at 30c, 6,000 do prime white on private terms; for June, 4,500 do standard white, 31@31¼c, buyer's option; 500 do 30c, buyer's option, first half: 7,500 do 31c, buyer's option, last half; 1,000 do, same delivery, 30½c, buyer's option; for July, 4,000 do, 31@32c, buyer's option; 5,500 do on private terms; and for August, 500 do, 32c, buyer's option; and 5,000 do on private terms. Free is quiet; 200@300 bbls sold, part at 34½c.

TITUSVILLE, PA.

The Herald of Saturday reports the market dull and depressed all day on Friday, and with occasional exceptions there were but very few transactions. The New York and Cleveland buyers purchased largely before the market broke, and are now almost wholly out. Several of these buyers are still short, but of course there is little disposition shown to purchase when the market is in its present condition. At points north of Petroleum Centre the demand for delivery on the cars was exceedingly limited, and what little there was was mostly for Boston. At Titusville a sale of 200 bbls is reported at $2 60 on the cars. At Petroleum Centre an offer was made for the Pittsburgh market at $3 75. At Oil City and points along the river north of that place there was some demand at the opening for Pittsburgh, but later in the day it fell off. In the morning a sale of 6,000 bbls was made at Oil City, for Pittsburgh, 41 gallons to the barrel, delivered in bulk boats, at $4 10. At the above point we quote nominally at $4 00@4 15 on broad gauge cars. At Upper Cherry Run a sale of 1,000 bbls is reported at $3 25 at the wells.
